Largest Vote In History Cast In Heated Election

W. P. Albright, Greensboro, Selected As Student-Body Head

TECHNICIAN CENTER OF CONTEST; 800 MEN VOTE

Steady Stream of Ballot-Markers Send Into Office: Holden, Choplin, Aydlett, Stephenson, Evans, Vernon, Love, Moore, Grant, Conrad — McDowell Gets Trophy For Second Year.

Polling the largest number of votes in the history of North Carolina State College, the student elections came to a close at sunset yesterday. Last year record of voters was broken by a margin of over a hundred votes. Eight hundred students went to the polls at Pullen Hall and cast their vote.

It will be recorded as one of the hottest elections ever held at this institution. Students voted in a steady stream from sunup until sundown, with the exception of noon and sunset, when the polls were crowded. The main issue of the election was centered around the editorship of the Technician.

W. P. Albright was elected president of the student body. Albright is a junior in the School of Agriculture and is from Greensboro, N. C.

A. L. Aydlett, of Elizabeth City, was elected to the editorship of the Technician. Aydlett is a junior in the School of Science and Business. A. B. Holden was chosen as vice-president of the student body. He is from Wilmington and is registered in the School of Science and Business. Holden will be a senior next year.

For treasurer of the student council, H. G. Love, of Burlington, and a sophomore in the School of Science and Business, was elected.

J. P. Choplin, sophomore, registered in the School of Agriculture, was elected secretary of the student council. Choplin hails from Winston-Salem.

J. T. Stephenson, of Raleigh, and a student in the School of Science — Continued on page 2.

CERAMIC SENIORS PLAN ANNUAL INSPECTION TOUR

Will Visit Plants Throughout the State in Longest Trip Yet Taken

The annual senior inspection trip of the ceramic engineers this year will be the longest yet undertaken. It is planned to leave Raleigh on the morning of April 30, visiting ceramic plants at Goldsboro, Greensboro, Statesville, Winston-Salem, Spruce Pine, Burnsville, Erwin (Tenn.), Asheville, Hendersonville, Charlotte, Monroe, Norwood, and Sanford.

The trip will require a week, the class returning to Raleigh May 7. Plans have been made by several of the plant owners to entertain the students while visiting their cities. The trip will be made by motor and will be under the supervision of Professor A. F. Greaves-Walker.

The students who will make the trip are P. E. Treathan, F. S. Hardee, J. E. Boyd, D. L. Stuckey, and W. L. Stafford.

Gray Returns To South Africa to Accompany His Mother on European Trip

I. D. Gray of Johannesburg, South Africa, who entered as a freshman in the School of Agriculture last fall, has temporarily discontinued his college work here and gone to London. He sails from New York today.

Mr. Gray leaves State College to accompany his mother, Mrs. Kathleen Gray, on a European tour. The particular countries they intend visiting are England, Scotland, France, Germany, Italy, and Switzerland.

OBSERVE FOUNDING STATE EXPERIMENT STATION THURSDAY

Will Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary With Exercises Here

PROMINENT SCIENTISTS AMONG THOSE TO ATTEND

Celebration Will Be Symbolical of Beginning of Agricultural Education in North Carolina—Dr. Brooks to Make Opening Address.

The fiftieth anniversary of the State College Experiment Station will be celebrated here Thursday. A committee composed of Professor Cunningham, Mrs. J. P. Stickey, F. W. Sherwood, and Professor Kime has been appointed by Dr. Winters to work out plans for the anniversary day celebration.

Dr. Charles W. Dabney, second director of the station, and Dr. H. E. Battle, third director, both of whom are the oldest living directors, will make the principal addresses on the occasion, and it is expected that their talks will be of great historical interest in showing the development of agricultural education in North Carolina.

Dr. E. W. Allen, head of the office of experiment stations at Washington, will also make an address. The program scheduled to open at 10:30 in the morning in the auditorium of the college Y. M. C. A. building, and will be presided over by Dr. R. Y. Winters, director of the station. Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of the college, will welcome the gathering, and Hon. William A. Graham, Commissioner of Agriculture, will give greetings.

Each of the former directors of the station will be present and will make brief speeches at a luncheon to be held immediately following the morning exercises, in honor of the visiting scientists and friends of the station. Dean T. O. Schaub will speak from the standpoint of the School of Agriculture and the extension service of the present day.

Beginning promptly at 3 o'clock in the afternoon a historical pageant depicting the committee meeting which resulted in the establishment of the station will be given, under the personal supervision of Prof. C. C. Cunn — Continued on page 2.

NOTICE TO SENIORS

Every senior who desires to be a candidate for the honor of speaking in the oratorical contest on Class Day should advise Professor Cunningham to this effect AT ONCE. Written or verbal notice must be given not later than Tuesday, April 17. Each candidate should indicate the school (Agriculture, Engineering, Textile, Science and Business, Education) in which he is enrolled. If more than one candidate enters from any school, a preliminary contest will be arranged.

C. C. CUNNINGHAM, Professor of Public Speaking.

GREAVES-WALKER DELIVERS THIRD SCIENCE LECTURE

Professor of Ceramics Tells Story of Clay-working Art

FIRST PRODUCT MADE BY MAN WAS POTTERY

Earliest Examples of Art Were Found to Have Been Made Ten Thousand Years Ago and Had Been Exposed to Fire—Dean Schaub Will Deliver Next Lecture Friday Night on Story of Agriculture.

"The beginning of the story of the clayworking art was lost in antiquity, as was the origin of the word 'ceramics,'" according to Professor A. F. Greaves-Walker, head of the department of Ceramic Engineering of N. C. State College, last night at the second of the Phi Kappa Phi popular science lectures in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

Professor Greaves-Walker briefly outlined the products made from clay, a few of which are cement, insulators, bricks and terra cotta, glass, chinaware, enameled ware, tile, and even the leads in the pencils.

"Our present civilization is possible only through the advancement in the manufacture of ceramic products," is one statement made by Professor Greaves-Walker.

At this point the real story of the clayworking art begins. All evidence seems to indicate that pottery was — Continued on page 5.

Brilliant Social Affairs Feature Easter Holidays

PAN-HELLENIC COUNCIL HAS ANNUAL BANQUET

Sullivan Gives Address of Welcome at Gathering in Yarrowborough Ballroom

Easter lilies, tied with varicolored ribbons, were combined with the colors of evening dresses and the black and white of men's "uncomfortable" dinner suits to make the annual Pan-Hellenic Council banquet at the Yarrowborough Hotel Tuesday night one of the most brilliant social events of the holiday period.

H. L. Sullivan, president of the Council, made the speech of welcome for the evening. He was followed by Wilson B. Kilgore with a toast "To the Night," Miss Martha Tillery, Raleigh, responded to a toast "To the Girls," made by Edmund Meekins.

Officers of the Council sat at a central table at the head of the room, while members and their guests sat at individual tables arranged promiscuously about the room.

Browne Goes To New York For Teachers' Meet

Professor T. E. Browne, head of the School of Education, left Monday night for New York to attend the National Conference on Education to be held in Teachers College in connection with the installation of William Fletcher Russell as dean. The conference will extend through April 19 and 21 and will cover every phase of education.

Mr. Browne is on the program to discuss "The Training of Professional Leaders in the Field of Parental Education." This is a subject with which Mr. Browne is very familiar, as he was one of the leaders in the successful conference on parental education here last winter.

Series of Festivities One of Most Enjoyable Held Here

DANCES, HOUSE PARTIES, BUFFET SUPPERS GIVEN

Many of Younger Set of North Carolina and Neighboring States in Attendance — Gymnasium Scene of All Dances.

The German Club dances and the many social gatherings of the fraternities at N. C. State furnished one of the most enjoyable and brilliant Easter season affairs ever held at North Carolina State College.

Beginning the series of festivities with the annual Pi Kappa Alpha dance Monday night the college social program was concluded with a German Club dance Wednesday night in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium, where all the dances were given.

The German Club gave an afternoon dance Tuesday, from 4 till 7 o'clock, and evening dances were given Tuesday and Wednesday night, which lasted from 9 until 1 o'clock. Music was furnished for all four of the dances by Maynard's Southland Serenaders, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Buffet suppers were given by Sigma Nu, Tau Rho Alpha, and Lambda Chi Alpha fraternities following the dance Monday night. Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu, and Pi Kappa Alpha entertained at house parties at their respective homes during the holiday period.

Many of the younger set of North Carolina and several neighboring states attended the dances. The following girls were present:

Misses Alice McRae Caldwell, High Point; Davie Belle Eaton, Winston-Salem; Marie Barbour, Macon, Ga.; Caroline Tucker, Raleigh; Margaret Hughes, Raleigh; Blana Mathews, Raleigh; Martha Galloway, Raleigh; Catherine Harden, Raleigh; Virginia Graham, Raleigh; Sara Whitaker, Raleigh; Francis Hande, Raleigh; Catherine Cosgrove, Raleigh; Nancy B. Harden, Raleigh; Margaret Hande, Raleigh; Madie Hughes, Raleigh; Ann Vaughn, Raleigh; Emily Storr, Raleigh; Elsie Mason Underwood, Raleigh; Annie Laurie Underwood, Raleigh — Continued on page 2.

GOLDEN CHAIN TAPPING TO BE HELD DURING MAY

Students Turn to Discussing the Probable Candidates for Golden Chain

Who will be the twelve men selected by the present members of the Golden Chain at the annual tapping to be held in the early part of May? That is the question that is being discussed now since elections are over, and the populace of the campus has taken on an air of calmness.

Every year between May 10 and 20 the annual tapping ceremonies are held at sunset on the front of the campus near the Memorial Tower. At the ceremonies some outstanding man of North Carolina delivers the principal address preceding the tapping, which is carried out in a very impressive way. Hon. Josephus Daniels delivered the address at the ceremonies last year. It is very probable that O. Max Gardner will be the speaker of the occasion this year.

The Golden Chain is a senior honorary society, which is composed of twelve rising seniors from the junior class. These men are selected on the basis of scholarship, leadership, loyalty to college, athletics, and other activities in which they have participated during their three years in college.

The present members are: J. W. Shuford, Hickory; U. G. Hodgins, Greensboro; C. A. Ridenhour, Concord; W. L. Roberts, Asheville; Ralph Brimley, Raleigh; H. H. Rogers, Raleigh; J. C. Davis, New Bern; Fred Davis, Seven Springs; C. L. Straughn, Siler City; C. S. Tucker, Amherst; J. B. Britt, Garner; and F. S. Sloan, Franklin.

Pi Kappa Alpha Entertains With Annual Easter Dance

A canopy of garnet and gold was effectively draped at the top of the gymnasium, in honor of the visiting scientists and friends of the station. Dean T. O. Schaub will speak from the standpoint of the School of Agriculture and the extension service of the present day.

The fraternity figure was led by John Dunn, of Enfield, assisted by Paul Elam, of Statesville, with Miss Fay Foster, of Statesville; Ed Speir, of Charlotte, with Miss Marion Dunn, of Enfield, and Walter Clement, of Enfield, with Miss Martha Galloway, of Raleigh. The initial letters of Pi Kappa Alpha were formed and the young ladies participating in the figure were presented with attractive jewelry boxes.

Prospects Bright For the Yearling Diamond Artists

(By E. H. Roberts)

Should Gus Tebell's 1928 edition of the freshman baseball team get the chance to feel themselves in action they will give somebody trouble. To date, the greenstockings have played only the yans and the varsity in practice.

Probably the long period of practice is a good thing, for although they are about the strongest freshman aggregation seen at State College in several years, they are somewhat lacking in form. With a few strokes from Gus's brush they should be able to smooth over the rough spots.

The outfield is strong. From the gardeners can be expected the bulk of the hitting and any sensational fielding that the team cares to present. In right they have McQueen, who is able to field the ball and hit it upon desired occasions. In center will be Brake, a good hitter and a good fielder. Atkinson, in left, will add greatly to the punch and form of the team.

The extreme sides of the infield are good. Clark on first is a good fielder and a fair hitter. Furtado, who holds down the hot corner, is probably the class of the infield, although such is speculation at this early stage of the game. Furtado is a good hitter and a nice fielder.

Around the keystone sack things look a little cloudy. Kerr does not coordinate his things around second base quite so well. Meade fields short fairly. If Meade and Kerr can get the double-play combination going the infield will look pretty good.

The one strong department the freshmen can boast of is the pitching corps. They possess several fingers that Chick Doak would be proud to have. Averett has as much form as any pitcher on the campus, and upon his shoulders will fall the bulk of the mound duty. However, Averett has some mighty competent help. McLawhorn has plenty of stuff, and should be able to win some games. O'Berry and Booker are the two other fingers. When these two round in shape the pitching will be one hundred per cent. Booker has probably not seen as much action as either Averett or McLawhorn, but with a little more experience and some of Gus's tutelage should round into a smart player.

All in all, the freshmen have a good team. With an air-tight corps of moundsmen and a good hitting outfield one cannot see how they can help but win some ball games.

ningham, head of the department of public speaking at State College, assisted by Hardy M. Ray, of that department. Members of the college faculty who will take the part of the members of the original committee were selected at the meeting Monday by Professor Cunningham. A committee from the station staff, composed of Dr. Jasper P. Stuckey, Dr. Frank W. Sherwood, and Prof. P. H. Kime was appointed by Dr. Winters to work with Professor Cunningham in making all plans for the celebration.

Appropriate musical selection reminiscent of the period of 1877, the time of the founding of the station, are to be selected by Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon and Major P. W. Price.

Prof. R. S. Dearstyne, Mrs. Maude E. Wallace, and Dr. R. F. Poole will have charge of the luncheon exercises, and the program committee consists of Frank H. Jeter, C. B. Williams, and Earl H. Hostetler. Dr. B. W. Wells and C. D. Matthews compose the house committee.

Invitations to attend the exercises have been extended to representatives of all the leading educational institutions in North Carolina and to those at other experiment stations of the United States. Dr. Winters states that he is expecting a number of prominent scientists and other visitors. The North Carolina station was the second such institution established in the country, and Dr. Winters says that the celebration of April 19 will be symbolic of the beginning of agricultural education in the State of North Carolina, as the station, now passed its fiftieth year, has during that time been of great value to the farmers of the state through its research work. Many contributions of value have been made to the scientific knowledge of the United States as well and the station has had a most honorable career.

Doakmen Win Easter Monday Game From Wake Forest 4-3

By combining their hits and keeping the errors down the Doakmen were able to nose out the Wake Forest Demon Deacons in the annual Easter Monday baseball classic of the South by a 4-to-3 score.

A hectic ninth inning, however, almost put a crimp into the Tech camp when there were three Deacons on the paths and only one man away. This was easily checked by a fast double play to end the contest and give State College one more Easter Monday game.

The Deacons opened the scoring in the second inning when Scarborough fanned, P. Joyner hit safely over third and then stole second. He went to third and home on Allgood's two wild pitches.

The Doakmen had a chance to score in their half of that inning when Snipes doubled with one out. Kidd sent a scorcher to James. Snipes was trapped between second and third and was put out at second by Dowtin, who whirled to catch Kidd, who was trying to make second on the play.

State tied the score in the fourth when Outen singled, stole second, and went to third when Kuykendall pegged poorly. Eatmon hit to deep short, scoring Outen.

The Techs took the lead in the sixth when Allgood, first at the bat, hit the ball for two bases. Woodworth singled to center, scoring Allgood. Lassiter played the ball to the plate and Woodworth went to second.

McDowall followed with a single and Woodworth started home and again Lassiter threw to the plate and McDowall went to second. James caught McDowall off second, but Jack went to third and over-slid the base and was out when he ran out of the baseline. Outen flew out and Eatmon fanned to end the inning.

Allgood held the Deacons in check until the eighth inning, when the Demons sent in Phelps to pinch hit. He came through with a double to deep center. James hit a grounder to Chink Outen and it got through his legs to score Dorsett, who was running for Phelps. James was out when he slid into second and lifted his feet off the bag and was tagged out by Woodworth, who had received the ball from Mayfield. Lassiter rolled out to McDowall, Kuykendall singled, and Dowtin rolled out to Outen to end the frame.

The Doakmen took revenge in their half of the same frame. With one out, Woodworth scratched a hit. McDowall went out at first, Woodworth going to second and scoring on Outen's hit. Pitcher James was relieved at this point by Captain Joyner and Eatmon rolled out to the new pitcher to end the inning.

The Demons threw a scare into the Tech camp in the last frame when Allgood walked Clayton. Scarborough fled out to Snipes. P. Joyner sent one to the right-field bleachers for two bases and Clayton went to third. Clayton scored on Reynolds' single to center, which put Joyner on third. Here Allgood almost messed things up when he attempted to catch Person's pop-up and dropped it when he and Seal both tried for the ball. This miscue put three men on the paths, and but for the fast work of Woodworth and Outen it would have been disastrous. K. Joyner hit to Woodworth, who tossed to Outen to catch Person at second, and Joyner was doubled at first.

Outen and Woodworth led the Tech hitters with two safe hits, while P. Joyner was the only Deacon to hit for more than one safety.

James pitched the first seven and two-thirds innings for the Wake Forest team and allowed the Doakmen ten hits. Allgood, on the mound for State, let the Deacons off with five hits, with four of those coming in the last two frames.

The Doakmen play the Blue Devils here this afternoon on Riddick Field at 3 o'clock. Everybody be right there boosting the team.

The Doakmen have at last struck their stride and with a little assistance from Sammy Rowe and Larry Allgood have succeeded in winning twice as many games this season as in the regular playing season last year. Two games won so far and two games lost.

Track is going along in first-class shape. Dr. Sermon has whipped men into good condition and has them doing their stuff every decent day.

The one crying need of the track team is more and faster sprint men.

Coach Tebell has a nifty bunch of freshmen out for his 1928 yearling team. They set the varsity down with a defeat, which set them thinking.

(By New Student Service).—The University of West Virginia has been expelled from membership in the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools for paying athletes and failing to audit its athletic funds. Specifically, it has been charged with paying members of the football squad.

The organization, which met last week in Chicago, comprises 251 colleges. Its action against West Virginia was the most drastic it has ever taken. The southern institution, which was granted membership two years ago, was censured last year for its athletic methods. It was ordered to clean up or get out. Its representatives tried to stave off action at the latest conference by offering to make a change in policy, but its promise to reform came too late.

The conference also recommended that each school's athletic policy should be controlled by the faculty. It proposed that coaches be put on the same basis as other members of the faculty, both in relation to tenure of office and salary. Coordination of—Continued on page 4.

INTRAMURAL ATHLETICS

The fraternity baseball league started Friday with two games being played, Alpha Lambda Tau winning over Alpha Gamma Rho by the score of 23 to 9, and Sigma Phi Epsilon defeating Delta Sigma Phi 29 to 17.

As the scores indicate, neither of these games was close, but both were greatly enjoyed by the contestants. The Alpha Lambda Tau's were in a hitting mood and ran in ten runs in the first inning before they were stopped. Howard White did the pitching for the S. P. E.'s and held his opponents in check while his mates piled up a big lead.

Friday, the thirteenth, did not keep the student body away from the polls yesterday.

Now that elections are over, students may feel that they will be unmolested when walking to and from classes.

A great many animals laugh, says a scientist, and of course a great many people give them a reason to.—Literary Digest.

Maybe one of the reasons the Marines have to stay in Nicaragua so long is that it takes so much time to find any American property to protect.

We have been told that the Wake Forest students had to return to their place of abode without using their joy bells—cow bells—after the Easter Monday game.

It's getting so that an honest Republican doesn't dare own any Liberty Bonds. There is only one word in that statement that might be contested, and that is the word "honest."

We did not have the same situation that happened at Carolina. A co-ed was accused of furnishing her car for transportation to and from the polls. However, the politicians were present in full force.

Now that the student body elections are over, shake hands with the victors, whether or not they were your choice. Forget personal grudges and help the men elected to these important offices accomplish what they undertake. It may be hard to do, but it is for the best interests of the college that everybody pull together.

AN IMPROVEMENT NEEDED

It is becoming increasingly apparent with every affair staged in the Frank Thompson Gymnasium that adequate provision should be made for the care of traffic. Under the present conditions it is not only disagreeable to automobile drivers, but is provocative of real danger.

An illustration of this was given during the recent dances, which were held in the gymnasium. Rain had made the already poor approach exceedingly slippery, and extreme caution had to be exercised to prevent accidents. Also, the high embankment almost at the door of the gymnasium is an ever-present menace to cars approaching the entrance. After arriving at the gymnasium, the problem of finding a suitable parking place adds to the traffic worries of the visitor; and then all of it over again, with the added discomfiture of a congested departure.

Practically all of this trouble would be removed by either paving and widening the present road or at least by building a more suitable drive. Grading and draining would alleviate the situation considerably. Parking space could easily be provided in the space between the gymnasium and Seventh Dormitory. And a few lamp-posts placed in the vicinity would help overcome some of the hardships now being endured.

The gymnasium is a desirable place for the staging of these events in all other respects, and there is no reason why it can't be made even more so. The final dances are not so far off and there will be many visitors in attendance. The present conditions are not such as to add to their enjoyment nor to a good opinion of State College.

BETTER SUPPORT

The Easter Monday baseball classic between Wake Forest and State was an ideal one—for State. Yes, State won.

If the result of the game had been in favor of Wake Forest I wonder if it would have been ideal—for State?

According to the interest manifested by many of the students at the game it didn't seem to make any difference who won, but to those who fought their heads off on the field it did seem to make a difference.

The west stands were filled with State students and their girls. They probably cut a day off of the Easter holidays in order that they might attend the dance Monday night. I wonder if anyone besides themselves knew that they were supposed to be supporters for the N. C. State College baseball team?

Each one of them played a part in State's victory over Wake Forest. Yes, they did a great deal for the team. Each one during the whole game gave a continuous silent cheer. Probably the girls told them to give this cheer. Probably their girls forbade them to yell. Probably their girls thought their darling ones would catch cold. Probably if they yelled for their team their so-called "shebas" would not allow them to take her to a dance, show, or party. I hate to see a girl of this sort, who will go to a game with her so-called "man" and not allow him to yell for his team.

To illustrate what I mean when I say that they do not allow their darlings to yell: State's cheer leader, Garibaldi, called for a yell. This yell was supposed to start a team representing these students in their first league game for the championship of North Carolina. The cheer was answered by about a dozen students. That it was started by these students, but was never finished. The students who answered the yell and started it were silenced by other students that ridiculed them because they answered it. They thought that the dozen students were fools. Who ever heard of anyone cheering for their team? Some people might have, but I am sure these students hadn't. They, with their girls, laughed at that tiny little cheer. The cheerers, weren't they fools, cheering their team? I noticed that every one of the boys answering the cheer leader's signal was a man from out of the state—men from other states attending this school. If getting behind the team and cheering them on is acting like a fool, then let's all act like fools!

Probably it wasn't the fault of the girls. Probably it was the fault of some of these hard-boiled upperclassmen. Probably they could not distinguish the freshmen present because the headpieces were missing. What I am trying to say is, let's all of us, both upperclassmen and frosh, back up our team.

Fellows, we have more games in which to show our school spirit and our true self—let's go.

S. DIMEO.

THE FRESHMAN PROBLEM

Are the freshmen going to take this campus? The sophomores seem to have given up hope of controlling them.

Recently, by a vote of the student body, the gauntlet was abolished, beginning with the fall term next year. It is just as well to abolish it, since only three freshmen have been made to run it this year, and all that happened in one day.

On Friday night before the Clemson-State football game last fall the freshmen were called out to bark at the '30 numeral on the old water tower and learn some yells. This was done about 12 o'clock at night. The Clemson team was the guest of State College and staying at the "Y." Needless to say they were kept awake by the noise. Was that very thoughtful of our sophomores?

When they were called down by the general criticism of this they seemed to have given up hope. Now, freshmen can be seen uptown without caps almost any time. They do not seem to fear the punishment if they are caught without them.

Freshmen when passed on the campus speak if they feel like it. They carry matches, if they smoke and need one themselves.

Why did they not abolish freshmen caps and the rules of speaking and carrying matches, along with the gauntlet? When a law is not enforced it is not much good to have the law.

R. B. TROGDEN.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Why hasn't State College a dance orchestra? Ask this question of any musician on the campus and you won't receive a single pessimistic answer. A lot of folks around here are wondering why we can't, or don't, have an orchestra capable of playing for dances.

Carolina has turned out several creditable orchestras. Duke has a good one. These orchestras besides at times having served their own schools have been the mediums of a lot of advertising for their alma maters.

There are several ways in which an orchestra might be organized. One might be individually organized. That is let some person or group of persons get together a playing organization upon their own ability. If this would not be possible the college might assist. In any case the college and the music department of the college should lend their hearty support to such an undertaking.

Apparently there is no shortage of musical ability on the campus. After one hears a performance of the band or the Glee Club he is convinced of their excellence. By all the laws of average out of a college of thirteen hundred men there should be enough talent present to create a creditable dance orchestra.

Should there be a shortage of material why couldn't we use a method of importation? A good snare drummer or a good trumpeter would be worth vastly more than a second rate athlete. Such drastic steps of course would not be necessary. If State has just as good musical talent as Duke or Carolina. All we need is for some good person to get behind such an undertaking and push it across.

Dear Sirs:

I am a prodigal son. I began pipe-smoking with Edgeworth. But after a while I began to wander, trying other tobaccos, experimenting to see if there were any better tobacco for the pipe.

I have tried most of the best known brands and a number of the more obscure, both imported and domestic, but they didn't suit.

So now I have returned—I am using Edgeworth again, satisfied that no better tobacco is made.

"And the prodigal son partook of the fatted calf"; I bought a new pipe when I returned to Edgeworth.

With many thanks for my cool, mellow, sweet smokes, I am,

"The university is a good place for athletes. They are not looked down upon.

"Fraternities do not charge their members huge sums of money."

And the editor of the student newspaper delivers the stirring charge to his constituency in these words:

"The suggestions are important; they are valuable. We decry the state of athletics. The non-athletic can now do as much as the star to help the situation if he only will. Any coed can do more than two men if she will make it her duty to remember that there are things that can be done as she flirts with the high school athlete during the short vacation.

"We have lost athletes in previous years because no student in the university took enough interest to talk to the athlete about the university and make him understand that he would be welcomed to the university. Such indifference is responsible for our present slump."

OTIS ELEVATOR COMPANY

"Husbands for Rent," featuring Owen Moore and Helene Costello, comes to the State Theatre next Monday for a run of two days, along with five acts of Keith vaudeville. It is built about the determination of a haughty old Britisher to marry his nephew, Herbert, to his ward, Doris. Herbert leaves on a hunting trip, expecting to comply with his uncle's request on his return. Both ward and nephew meet "somebody else," however. Society hears of Herbert's engagement to the stranger, Molly Deane, while Doris is to marry Hugh Fraser.

On the eve of the wedding of Doris Hugh elopes with Molly. The dismayed uncle insists that Herbert and Doris now marry, to quiet gossiping tongues. This they do, each believing that the marriage is one of convenience only. Then the elopers come back, each to claim the one jilted!

Every picture under the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer banner has meant a new nationality for Lillian Gish. In her latest, "The Enemy," an adaptation of Channing Pollock's famous stage play, coming Wednesday and Thursday to the State Theatre, she is an Austrian in a vivid drama of war hysteria and hatreds. She plays the tragic Pauli of the play, with Ralph Forbes and a notable cast.

In "The Wind" she was an American; in "Annal Laurie" she was Scotch; in "The Scarlet Letter," and French in "La Boheme," while in "Romola" she was, of course, Italian. She has probably played every nationality except an Oriental one.

An hour of riotous fun on the roof of a New York sky-scraper is one of a series of laughable incidents in "The Small Bachelor," which comes to the Capitol Theatre Monday and Tuesday. Barbara Kent and Andre Beranger have the featured roles.

Have you a little Gloom Germ that is proud of its health? Take it to see Harold Lloyd at the Capitol Theatre next Thursday and Friday in "Grandma's Boy" and watch it turn up its toes and die! Mildred Davis, Anna Townsend, Dick Southerland, and Charles Stevenson have conspired with Lloyd in this Pathepicture to war against the enemies of joy and hilarity.

Pathe's noted Western Star, Buddy Roosevelt, has always been known for the novelties he has managed to inject into his thrilling western pictures, and "Between Dangers," coming to the Capitol Theatre next Saturday is no exception. In this picture Buddy offers to the picture-going public Abe Lefkowitz, the only Jewish cowboy in captivity! Abe is known as the "Rodeo Clown." He has appeared in many rodeos as a comic, riding the trick mule, deceiving the public into thinking that he can't ride. It is rumored that Abe won't go near a horse that doesn't understand Jewish, and that this is the reason for his success, but as yet no foundation in fact has been established for this conjecture.

Millions of motion picture fans, the world over, who have been longing to see Ramon Novarro in the role of a real Latin lover, are going to realize this ambition when they see him in the stellar role of "The Road to Romance," a screen version of Joseph Conrad's most famous story, as well as his most colorful melodrama.

Novarro plays the part of a Spanish courtier seeking adventure in the New World—which he finds aplenty.

Novarro plays this part as though he were born to it, and in doing so merely emulates the actions of his own ancestors who came to America several centuries back. Marceline Day has the featured feminine role in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture coming next Friday and Saturday to the State Theatre.

An unusually large cast of well-known film players will be seen when "American Beauty," starring Billie Dove, opens its engagement here at the Palace Theatre next Monday for three days. Opposite Miss Dove is Lloyd Hughes, screen favorite of many pictures. Walter McGrall and Margaret Livingston have prominent parts, and in supporting roles are Lucient Prival, Al St. John, Edythe Chapman, Alice White, Yola d'Arvil, Layeta Young, and many other faces familiar to screen fans. Richard Wallace directed "American Beauty," and Carey Wilson produced it.

Will Rogers is emphatic in his praise of his supporting cast in "A Texas Steer," the comedy special produced by Sam E. Rork for First National Pictures, which comes next Thursday and Friday to the Palace Theatre here. Here is what he has to say:

"Take Louise Fazenda, for example. She has the part of 'Ma' Brandt, who sort of got tired hanging around a ranch house and wanted to get her daughter married to a title or some other clothes horse. Seems rather peculiar, but did you ever stop to figure that there's twenty funny men comedians on the stage to every woman? When you've said Louise Fazenda you've just about named them all. Wait till you see Louise in her store clothes arriving in Washington. That's something to write home about."

After producing nearly a hundred Westerns and still proving to his screen fans that he can maintain his high standard, Buck Jones, Fox Films star in "The Branded Sombreiro," is very modest in voicing his thoughts on the subject.

Buck claims that half of his laurels should rest on Silver Buck's shoulders. This horse has thrilled the world. In his latest production Buck and Silver give one of the finest performances of their careers and are admirably assisted by a splendid supporting cast, including Lella Hyams, Jack Baston, Francis Ford, Josephine Borio, and Leo Kelley. Lambert Hillier directed the production, which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday.

"The Red Kimono," which opens at the Superba Theatre next Friday and Saturday for a limited engagement, is a picture that should have a powerful appeal to all parents, because it deals with a subject close to their hearts—the welfare of their children, especially their daughters.

CAMPUS SOON TO PRESENT ATTRACTIVE APPEARANCE

Great Improvement Expected After Completion of Present Construction Program

When the work on the drives and entrances to the campus which is now going on is completed, State College will have as fine and imposing drives as there are to be found at any college in the state.

These entrances, which will be constructed in approved collegiate style, will serve a real utilitarian purpose, besides giving dignity and atmosphere to the campus. No longer will visitors and students become mired in the mud or stumble in the darkness heretofore so prevalent at the entrances, as four lamp-posts will brighten these places. The design of the entrances will be similar to those on the bridge leading to Seventh Dormitory, and built of brick and stone. The construction of them only awaits the arrival of the materials, which are expected in a few days.

The present building program, which includes the erection of Peele Hall, the Physics building, the Civil Engineering building, new greenhouses, a warehouse adjacent to Riddick Field, and the drives and walks, will be completed by the opening of the college next fall. Students returning at that time will appreciate the marked change from the present disorderly condition, as well as the attractiveness which is expected to characterize the campus.

Among the other contemplated improvements on the campus is the renovation of Holladay Hall, which is to take place during the summer. While this is being done the business offices in Holladay will be transferred temporarily to Peele Hall, which is expected to be finished by July. Major Early has requested that quarters for the Military Department be provided in the basement of Holladay Hall. This will lead to the abandonment of Primrose Hall.

All of this work is being done under the supervision of Mr. T. A. Kennedy, who is superintendent of construction for the college.

Professor H. M. Ray Returns From Long Mid-West Journey

Professor Hardy M. Ray returned Wednesday from Tiffin, Ohio, where he attended the national convention of Pi Kappa Delta, national forensic fraternity. Mr. Ray represented the N. C. State Alpha Chapter and Professor C. C. Cunningham, who is governor of the Southeastern Province. A charter has been granted to the Farmville Teachers College, at Farmville, Va. Since this charter has been granted the Southeastern Province will embrace North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. The new chapter will be called the Virginia Alpha.

After the convention Mr. Ray journeyed to Chicago and Detroit on a pleasure trip. Owing to the elections that were going on in Chicago Mr. Ray cut his visit short.

the first product made by man in his rise from the primitive state. He made these pots and vessels to hold his food, a primary requirement. This crude pottery was molded from clay and allowed to dry in the sun.

The earliest examples of the art were found to have been made nearly 10,000 years ago, and had been exposed to fire and followed about the same design. It was made by pressing the clay in a hollowed place in the ground.

The next step in the manufacture of the clay ware shows that man had started to build part of the vessel above ground. Six thousand years ago the potter's wheel made its appearance, as is shown by paintings of potters at the wheel on the walls of Thebes.

The third development showed glaze and decoration on the pottery. The designs were first scratched in the surface of the pot and later it was painted on with colored clay. About 4,000 years ago the scratches were replaced by figures. People ordinarily associate the earliest ceramics with China, although the oldest examples have been found in Babylonia. Chinese legends place the first translucent porcelain about 1000 B.C., but it is doubtful if it was produced before Han, about 200 B.C. At the same time the cobalt blues and the ox-blood red appeared.

Ceramics were first introduced into Europe in 1709, when Johnson Beestger, alchemist, established the Dresden porcelain works under Augustus, the Strong. The Prussians defeated the Saxons in 1760 and established the Royal Berlin Works.

Glass is about 3,600 years old. The old story of the Phoenician sailors building fires on the sand and finding glass underneath still is told, but the first glass was found in tombs in Thebes. Glass beads were found on the mummies. Later the glass industry centered around Alexandria. The Romans took it up about 50 B.C., and the Venetians in the 16th century.

Sanitary sewers, brick and terra cotta, enameled metals, and cement each have an interesting story behind their origin and how they have been developed through the ages.

The next Phi Kappa Phi popular science lecture will be given next Friday night at the same place, with

Dean I. O. Schaub giving the "Story of Agriculture."

The Phi Kappa Phi honor fraternity has extended a cordial invitation to all people who are interested in the sciences to be present.
