C. C. CUNNINGHAM RESIGNS POSITION ON STATE FACULTY

Accepts Professorship at Northwestern University

GUIDED STATE COLLEGE IN MANY CHAMPIONSHIPS

Bringing Chapter Pi Kappa Delta, Reorganizing English Department, Coaching Winner of National Oratorical Contest, Among Cunningham's Contributions to College.

By W. R. DIXON

Professor Cornelius C. Cunningham, who is now serving his fifth year as head of the public speaking work at State College, has been appointed to a full professorship on the faculty of Northwestern University. His chair, that of "Professor of Extempore Speaking," will be in the School of Speech.

He will have charge of the course in public speaking in the College of Liberal Arts at Evanston, Illinois, and will teach practical public speaking to business men and women in the School of Commerce in Chicago. He will also instruct the advanced course in argumentation and debate and will have supervision over the intercollegiate and intra-mural debate and oratory of the entire university.

Professor Cunningham received the M. A. degree in Speech from Northwestern University in 1924, having previously, in 1915, been awarded the A. B. degree summa cum laude by Beloit College, Wisconsin. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and of Delta Sigma Rho and Pi Kappa Delta, national honorary public speaking fraternities. He has been for three years governor of the South Atlantic Province of Pi Kappa Delta, including chapters of the fraternity in West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, and South Carolina. Last year he was a vice-president of the National Association of Teachers of Speech.

He is a native of New Jersey, but spent his boyhood and youth on "the sidewalk of New York," where, being at the age of eleven, he sold newspapers at the Brooklyn end of the Twenty-third Street Ferry. He was graduated from the Commercial High School of Brooklyn in 1907 as valedictorian of his class of nearly two hundred. After four years experience as a clerk in a Wall Street brokerage house, he entered Colgate University. While a student at Colgate he wrote a history of one of the New York regiments in the Civil War, thereby earning money for his

RUSSELL WILL SPEAK AT PHI KAPPA PHI MEETING

Topic for Lecture Will Be "The New Struggle for Liberty"

Dr. Elbert Russell, dean of the School of Religion at Duke University, will deliver the third of the Phi Kappa Phi lectures Friday evening, March 1, at 8 o'clock, in the Y.M.C.A. auditorium.

Dr. Russell was intending to speak on some phase of religion, but Dean B. F. Brown, of the science and business school, thinking that fewer students would attend if the lecture was on religion, asked Dr. Russell to speak on some other subject. He has selected as his topic, "The New Struggle for Liberty."

Dr. Russell lectured here three weeks ago at the Y.M.C.A. open forum. That his speeches are very interesting and effective is shown by the large number in attendance at the open forum meeting.

Dr. Hood of Davidson was the last speaker on the Phi Kappa Phi series of lectures and his address was very interesting. A large number were in attendance.

It is hoped the auditorium will be filled to hear Dr. Russell's address next Friday night, the Dean said.

Fair Week Crowds Will See Baptist Team Meet Techs

The old fair-week game will be resumed at the North Carolina State Fair this fall, with the announcement of the fair-week date of October 14 to 19.

Wake Forest and State College have scheduled their annual football contest for Thursday, October 17, 1929, and the 1930 game between the Baptists and Wolfpack will come on Thursday, October 15, thereby assuring college contests during fair week for this and next year.

The week of the game is the same which the former fair directors used for fair dates, but last year, when the fair was reorganized, the date was moved up a week, too late for college authorities to change their football playing date.

The game will help the fair attendance. Although played on Riddick Field at State College, scores, hundreds, of out-of-town fans will come to Raleigh for the game and then visit the fair, while most of them probably would not visit the Capital City if the game was not scheduled for the same week, according to football schedule makers.

CONFERENCE SOCIAL SERVICE BEGINS ANNUAL CONVENTION

Tuesday, February 26, Set as Day for Opening Annual Session

The seventeenth annual convention of the North Carolina Conference for Social Service will be held in Raleigh, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday, February 26, 27, 28.

Several prominent speakers have been secured for the occasion. Among these are Dr. W. L. Poterat, president emeritus of Wake Forest College; Dr. H. E. Rondthaler, president of Salem College; Dr. W. E. Dodd, University of Chicago; Dr. O. E. Bulla, county health officer, Raleigh; Miss Nell Battle Lewis, Raleigh, and Dr. C. B. Hoover, Duke University.

The program will start Tuesday morning at the Woman's Club. At noon a joint luncheon will be given the members of the different societies. The meeting Tuesday afternoon will be at the Woman's Club, and at night the general session of the conference will be held at the United Church, with Mr. Frank Graham presiding. The remaining meetings will be held at the United Church.

A large number of people are expected to attend, because the society aims to deal with human life in North Carolina. One of the purposes of the society is to develop an environment of physical, mental, and moral progress for each individual within the state. All branches of social service are called into action to carry on the ideals of the organization.

Each year more people have joined the organization, because of its platform, addresses, and activities, which tend to increase the higher social life of men, women, and children in the state.

The society has accomplished these things: established juvenile courts in North Carolina, abolished flogging in the State Prison, instituted a physical examination for school children, created a State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, established a tubercular prison camp, and placed the State Prison on an appropriation basis.

Many interesting subjects will be discussed and lectured on during this conference.

Red Terrors Take Game From Wake Forest Quintet 44 to 12

By FRANCIS TRIPP

Wake Forest College furnished but little opposition to the fast-traveling North Carolina State varsity basketballers and were smothered under a 44-12 score in the Frank Thompson gymnasium last Monday night.

State's great defense functioned to perfection and allowed the Deacon offense but four field goals during the evening. Goodwin, Haar, and Johnson went wild through Wake Forest's defense and scored at will. Goodwin took the scoring honors of the game by caging nine goals from the field and one on a free throw, for a total of 13 points. Johnson netted six baskets from the floor for second honors.

Wake Forest was minus the services of their captain, Al. Dowtin, who was called to the bedside of his sick mother, and with this star out of the line-up they looked far inferior to the team that represented them in early season games.

In the first half the Red Terrors ran up a 22-9 score. Coach Tebell experimented with his line-up and started Johnson in place of Capt. Hank Young at left forward. Gus Wright paired up with Warren in the back court. This combination functioned smoothly before they gave way to numerous substitutions near the end of the half.

Wake Forest scored but three points in the last frame, while State was duplicating its point total of the first half. The Wolfpack offensive seemed to be able to score at will against the Deacon opposition before the final gun put a halt to activities.

BUCHANAN AND BURROUGHS CHOSEN FOR DEBATE TOUR

Dixon and Mercer Will Debate University of Florida Here

Edgar W. Buchanan, Spruce Pine, junior in business administration, and H. H. Burroughs, Bethel, senior in general science, have been chosen to make the major debating tour of the college this year.

This tour will include a debate with Virginia State Teachers College, Farmville, Va., on March 26, the girls' college at Harrisonburg, Va., on the 27th, and Rutgers University (New Jersey University) on March 28. The debate with Rutgers will be the major debate of the year.

The debating squad of Rutgers University, composed of 136 men, will attend the debate in a body.

W. R. Dixon, Rocky Mount, sophomore in architecture, and Lee R. Mercer, sophomore in chemical engineering, from Norfolk, Va., will debate Florida University in the parish house of the Good Shepherd Church, here in Raleigh, on March 5.

They will uphold the negative side of the proposition: "Resolved, That trial by jury should be abolished in the United States." Their second debate will be with the University of Alabama, probably at Rocky Mount on March 18.

In addition to this, they will go to Asheville to debate Mercer University at a date that has not been definitely settled as yet. It will be some time during the latter part of March.

Buchanan and Burroughs will uphold the affirmative side of the same question, and their first debate of the season will be with Davidson College at Burlington on March 12. A second contest will be held at Meredith College on the 16th with Wake Forest College. Their outcome in this contest will decide whether or not they shall enter the Pi Kappa Delta finals, to be held in Raleigh during the Pi Kappa Delta convention on March 20 and 21.

H. F. London and J. B. Litchfield will represent State College in other debates during the year as a second affirmative team.

GRANDCHILDREN'S CLUB ADOPTS BY-LAWS AND REAFFIRMS OLD NAME

At the meeting of the Granddaughters and Grandsons Club of State College last Tuesday night in the "Y" a set of by-laws was submitted for approval of the members and passed upon. As the constitution has already been drawn up, the organization is ready to begin its purposeful career.

The temporary name given the club was voted to stand until one could be selected that would be fitting for an organization of this nature. Members eligible for membership are urged by the organizers to be present at the next meeting, which is to be held next Tuesday night at 8:30 in the "Y."

Freshmen Win State Title With Victory Over Baby Deacons

By FRED DIXON

The State Freshmen licked the Baby Deacons from Wake Forest Monday night, 32-29, in the Frank Thompson gym, and in doing so clinched the yearling championship of North Carolina.

In winning the title the Techies have won victories over Carolina, Duke, Wake Forest, Asheville, Oak Ridge, and Wingate Junior College, and lost only two games, those being to Carolina and Greensboro High School.

The Freshmen machine has a peculiar trait of coming to victory from behind a commanding lead of the opposing team late in the fourth quarter. It has been this late driving power that has carried them through to the title.

In the Wake Forest game the Techies had to overcome a big lead that the Baptists had piled up in the first half, to come out on top, but they had the power to do, and they put it to work late in the third quarter.

The Deacons having suffered a 24-8 defeat early in the season at the hands of the State freshmen, were not expected to give Doc Sermon's outfit much trouble, but it was a different tale as the Baptists took the lead in the first half and held it until the third quarter. At one stage of the game Wake Forest had an 8-point lead. The

"R. U. R." PLAY WILL BE PRESENTED IN APRIL

Local Dramatic Club Have Many Applicants for Various Parts

Red Masquers, local dramatic club, has at last started to function, as was shown at the try-outs for the play, "R. U. R.," held Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons of this week.

A final try-out will be held at 12 o'clock in Professor C. C. Cunningham's office.

About thirty-five or forty students tried out for the various parts of the play. No one has been definitely selected to take any particular part. This will probably be announced at try-outs today.

It is planned to present the play some time in April. Professor Cunningham and Professor Oberholzer are directors of the play, and with this aid it should be a success.

There are several members trying out who played major roles in high school dramatics. The experience of these students will be of great assistance in putting the play over. A dramatic club does not only need actors, but also business managers, stage managers, stage hands, electricians, make-up people, and property men, stated the president of the organization. He invites anyone who is interested in any sort of dramatic work to attend the next meeting of the Red Masquers.

LAUNDRY OPERATOR HANGED IN EFFIGY AS BOYCOTT OPENS

Cullins Uses a Shotgun On the Head of Choplin

LAUNDRYMAN HAD OTHER TROUBLE, SAY STUDENTS

After Striking State Student, Cullins Offers Him Sheet and Clothes Without Charge "Rather Than to Have Anything Happen."

By W. R. DIXON

A cold, drizzly rain falling dimly upon the campus Wednesday morning found the figure of J. B. Cullins, local laundry operator, hanging in effigy at the top of a tree in the rear of Peele Hall, following an argument between him and J. Paul Choplin, as a result of which Cullins struck Choplin a bad blow across the head, cutting his head over the left ear and necessitating four stitches to close up the wound.

On February 1 Choplin, junior in agriculture, carried his laundry to the college cleaners. On the following Friday he went back, secured his laundry, and carried it to his room. He opened it there and, with his roommate standing near, discovered one sheet missing. When he made known the shortage to the laundry clerk, she gave him a ticket marked "One sheet short." Choplin did not attempt to get another sheet at that time, but waited until a later date to have the shortage made up.

When he returned to secure his clothes, and two suits that had been carried in the meantime to be pressed, Cullins was at the counter. Choplin showed him the ticket and explained the shortage. Cullins then went on to say that Choplin had already secured the sheet and was only trying to secure another from him, and that the only way in which he would get anything from him would be through legal action.

Choplin then said that if Cullins did not make the loss good that he would not pay the charge on the suits. After this was said, Cullins picked up the receiver of the telephone and called the police station, but hung up before anyone answered. After this there was more talk in which Cullins again insinuated that Choplin was prevaricating. This time Choplin went over the counter after Cullins. Cullins, however, did not attempt to keep him out, but stepped back and picked up a shotgun, which he kept in a corner for some unknown reason, and struck Choplin across the head, leaving a gash some four or five inches long

Musical Clubs Present Entertainment Pullen Hall Wednesday Night

The State College Glee Club, Orchestra, and "Hill Billies" will present a complementary program of classical, jazz, and spiritual music to the student body, the girls' colleges of Raleigh, the faculty and their families, and the people of Raleigh, next Wednesday night at 8:00 in Pullen Hall.

Special songs by the Glee Club, popular selections by the orchestra, with a feature in the old fashion Glee, played by the "Hill Billies" string quartet will furnish a well rounded evening of entertainment. "Daddy" Price, the old stand-by in musical activities, says: "We are putting on a program for the glory of State College and we wish every State College student to be present."

"This is the first time in history such an annual program has been attempted, and it is up to the student to make it a success," says "Daddy" Price. The organizations have made several successful trips this year, and everywhere they go the attendance is fine. The program is free to everybody, and everyone is invited, officials said.

With great regret we learn of the resignation of our good friend and former professor, C. C. Cunningham. He will go with the best of wishes for success at Northwestern.

Editorially, The Twig claims to be in the running to have a good newspaper at Meredith College. For the nth time in two years we should like to remind the staff: "For gawd sake, look after your headlines better."

Seems as if several folks tried to make a skating rink out of THE TECHNICIAN office last Tuesday. If THE TECHNICIAN thus "rolls its own," don't think the phrase refers to hose, cigarettes, or babies.

The effigy of Dean Cullens in the tree back of Peele Hall is sufficiently expressive of campus opinion. We await with interest the final outcome of the whole thing.

Don't forget there is a cup being offered by the local chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary journalistic fraternity, for the best contribution to THE TECHNICIAN this year.

We just happened to think why it might be that Professor Henninger has been staying around the Senate chamber in the capitol building. Maybe he's lobbying for the workmen's compensation bill.

THE LAUNDRY AFFAIR

When one is conducting a public service organization it is up to one to give the public fair, decent, prompt, and courteous service. The slogan one of the largest department stores in the country gives its employees is: "The customer is always right." Those employees stick by that watchword, whether or no.

As a result of such a policy toward its customers that store has built up a goodwill asset worth an enormous amount and has sent its patrons away satisfied and pleased, the best advertisement any organization could wish. This has been the general practice in the business world and is today recognized as the best ethics by those who wish to conduct an honest business and meet their trade on straightforward grounds.

But there are some in contact with the public who flaunt, intentionally or otherwise, the old idea of "let the buyer beware." It is people like these who make the general public feel there is no honesty in business methods; who make it seem as if the only object in the business world is to beat the other fellow out of everything that can be gotten by. When a flagrant violation of the code of ethics of the business world comes to view, as was the case on this campus this week, and when the disapproval of the students has shown itself in the boycott of the College Laundry and the subsequent determination to send all wash work to uptown establishments, it is time for the college authorities to begin activities.

In the four years we have been at State College there has come to our ears every now and then innumerable complaints of the service rendered by the campus wash-house and the treatment accorded students there. Time and again we have heard it said the proprietor of the local laundry made it emphatically known to the student trade that he was not responsible for articles left in his care. And such a policy is against all concepts of gentlemanliness. If one lost another's book, one is in honor bound to replace it.

It is not to be thought we are upholding the student in his charge over the counter, an incident which might better have been omitted and some other recourse taken to obtain the articles desired. The student might have applied to other authorities to use their influence to gain his ends. The redeeming feature of the hurdle seems to us to be in bringing about circumstances that brought the whole matter to a head.

When a story of a somewhat similar incident was published in the columns of this paper last year the proprietor threatened to bring about suspension of publication of THE TECHNICIAN. At least once a year, sometimes more, such things have been happening.

With the shooting episode on one side of the campus and the fight tableau on the other, it is our opinion something should be done by the college authorities to place administration of public affairs in the hands of competent persons who are not too fiery-tempered and who realize the obligations public service puts upon them. Of course the college can do little in this case, since the laundryman is under contract.

It is only by the wholehearted boycott by the student body that anything can be done to remedy conditions here. One certainly cannot pay rent on the space one occupies if there is no income from that occupancy. Student demand should be recognized by the college officials when the time comes to renew the contract. Then would be the time for the institution to assume operation of the public utility as is the case at the University.

Existing conditions have gone on long enough. The old order should change and give place to the new. If the boycott is upheld the new order will soon arrive. The college most certainly cannot force students to send their business to an establishment they have boycotted. It is up now to the members of the student body. What will they have?

MUD vs. CINDERS

Back in the Middle Ages, along about the twelfth century, the people lived in castles. Around these castles the old-timers dug big ditches or moats, wide and deep, and they kept them filled with mud and water. A few years ago a nice, shallow, inconvenient place was found on our campus, and here on this far-away spot Seventh dormitory was built. For some unfathomable reason the builders of Seventh dormitory constructed it good and low, so that a nice, big moat had to be dug around it, exactly like the moats surrounding those castles of old. And like those moats of the Middle Ages, ours is also kept full of water and mud—Nature sees to that.

All very quaint and very charming, but here's the rub: the resemblance is not complete; the picture has not yet been finished. For the convenience of the inmates and visitors, those wide old lords had bridges built that could be let down across the moat when anyone wanted to go out or in. They realized how inconvenient it would be to have to slosh through all that nasty mud and water every time they went out or in; that's why they pulled up the bridges every time the enemy came. They didn't like the enemy. That's where the resemblance stops. Here in Seventh we have no bridge, nor any other way of reaching the outside world without becoming horribly muddy and disgustingly damp around the feet.

A few charred cinders from the local "whistle factory," strewn along the right of way from any door of Seventh to the bridge across the railroad would do wonders with the dis-

CAROLINA DISCOVERS A NEW WAY TO BREAK INTO HEADLINES AS A 'WINNER'

Chapel Hill, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The University of North Carolina debaters, upholding the negative end of the query, "Resolved, That the public should own and operate the hydro-electric plants of the United States," tonight won from debaters representing Marquette University of Milwaukee. Decision was by applause of the audience.

This is probably a surer and safer way than to engage in decision contests before committees of judges.

HEYWARD DEWAR

It is always with the deepest sorrow that we face the death of any member of our student body. And it is all the harder to give one up who has lived a clean life; one who was always gentlemanly; one who has always had the highest ideals; one who lived for others; one whom we have learned to love.

Heyward Dewar was just seventeen—just entering the prime of life. But at that, his life has been of tremendous influence among his friends. He will never be forgotten for his high ideals and his lovable and gentlemanly ways. He inspired others to live better; his life was not in vain. We know it is exceedingly hard for those nearest and dearest to him, his family and his friends, to give him up, but it must be a very great comfort to them to know that he lived such a Christian life. This should be an inspiration to us to live more like that so that our loved ones may have no regrets when our days are spent.

The student body extends its deepest sympathy to the family and friends of Heyward Dewar.

education. At the end of his sophomore year he transferred to Beloit College, Wisconsin.

He was a debater and orator in college, and also had charge of several churches in New York and Wisconsin as student pastor.

On his graduation from Beloit he taught for two years in order to pay college debts, and then, the United States entering the World War, he enlisted as a private in the regular army and served overseas in the artillery, becoming a regimental sergeant-major.

Before coming to State College he taught at Berea College, Kentucky, Wabash College, Indiana, the University of Wisconsin, and the University of Arizona.

Previous to the arrival of Professor Cunningham at State College there had been very little debating and oratorical work done, but the first year of his time here he put out a debating team that won both of the decision debates held and took part in two non-decision debates. During this first year Professor Cunningham also reorganized the English department completely and brought Pi Kappa Delta to State College.

The second year of his stay at State College, Cunningham put out a debating team that won all four of the decision debates they took part in, and also took part in one non-decision debate. The following year the debating team won three of the four debates in which they participated, and took part in one non-decision debate. Last year the team won four out of six decision debates and took part in one non-decision debate.

Not only in debating has Professor Cunningham benefited State College, but also in oratorical work. For three times teams coached by him won the state constitution contest. They won the state peace contest once, and took first place in the southern interstate contest one time as well as second place one. Going still higher, one of Cunningham's pupils won first place in the national oratorical contest, and, not satisfied with this, another of his pupils took third place in the same contest. In another national contest second place was won by one of his pupils.

Professor Cunningham will leave here at the end of school for the University of Chicago, where he will study until the opening of the fall term at Northwestern. He is working on his Ph.D., which he hopes to finish in the next three years, and, according to the professor, he will do well and will be lucky if he finishes then.

Numbers of students have expressed regret, but no surprise, at learning Professor Cunningham must leave. They all seem to realize he is working toward bigger things, and he can only wish him much good luck in his new position.

his scalp, and almost knocking him senseless.

As soon as he had struck Choplin, Cullins came to his senses and, realizing what he had done, offered to give Choplin a sheet and his clothes, also, without charges. Cullins made a statement to Choplin to the effect that he had rather give the boy the clothes than to have anything happen.

This is not the first time State College students have had trouble at the laundry. Numbers of cases of shortage and dissatisfaction with the service rendered at the laundry were aired at a student body meeting held in Pullen Hall Tuesday evening, when plans were being made to boycott the local laundryman. Nearly 700 students were present at this meeting and voted for the motion that all students refuse to trade at the campus establishment as long as it remained under the present management.

Numerous students at this meeting testified to the fact that at different times Cullins had exchanged profanity across the counter with them. The students are not to be excused for this, but numerous men on the campus have said it was not to be expected from a mature man who was doing business with the students.

Cullins is thought to have reported the fact that a number of State College students gathered in front of the laundry Tuesday night and broke out a number of window lights in the establishment. Upon investigation it was discovered no window lights had been broken, and the only ones in the place that were broken had been in that state for the last two terms.

It was on Wednesday morning that students on their way to breakfast noticed a man-sized figure hanging from a tree in the rear of Peele Hall. On closer inspection they discovered it was the "Famous Dean Cullins," hanging in effigy. It was a scene of much interest to the students until removed late that afternoon.

Following is a letter from A. B.

Holden, vice-president of the student government organization here, to Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of the college:

"At a meeting of the student body on February 18, 1929, the following was formally adopted by a unanimous vote of the students present (approximately 800):

"We, the students of State College, feel that the college laundry is being managed in a manner unbecoming to courteous and gentlemanly conduct. In the past numerous students have had distasteful relations with the laundry management, causing general dissatisfaction. This dissatisfaction has been continual. The latest incident culminated in an argument between the manager, Mr. J. B. Cullins, and a student, J. P. Choplin. In this particular case Mr. Cullins struck Mr. Choplin over the head with a shotgun, causing a painful wound which necessitated medical attention.

"This act, we feel, was one which cannot and would not be tolerated by any civilized community. We, therefore, earnestly ask that the administration take steps to remove Mr. Cullins from the college campus as early as possible.

"The following motion was also formally presented and adopted:

"We, the student body of N. C. State College, recommend that the administration investigate the feasibility of conducting the business of the college laundry on a basis similar to that at the University of North Carolina. We suggest as a possible manager Mr. "Chick" Doak, or a man of his caliber.

"On request of the president of the student government, W. P. Albright, I presided at the meeting."

It is the purpose of the editor of this column to give the students of State College "advance dope" on the coming amusements and entertainments.

The Palace Theatre, beginning Monday, March 4th, will present George Jessel in his first singing-talking production, "Lucky Boy."

Jessel sings from start to finish of the picture, there being five songs heard in it, and he also engages in a lot of dialogue and wide cracking.

"The Wolf of Wall Street," starring George Bancroft, will be presented at the Palace Theatre, all week, starting Monday, February 25th.

This announcement is noteworthy, due to the fact that it will mark the first time local audiences will be able to hear as well as see Bancroft in action.

Like many other stage stars now in motion pictures, Bancroft has never had an opportunity to bring his voice to the screen until now.

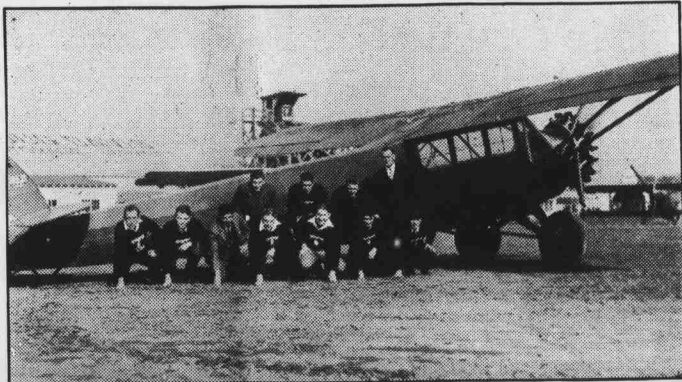

The star is fortunate to have such an exceptional cast of supporting players in this picture. There are Bacalanova, a product of the Moscow Art Theatre; Paul Lukas, called the "Barrymore of Hungary," who speaks flawless English; Nancy Carroll, from musical comedy; Arthur Rankin, nephew of the famous trio of Barrymores, and an experienced stage actor; Brandon Hurst and Crauford Kent, both veterans of the stage.

The State Theatre announces "Wild Orchids" as the feature attraction for next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The story deals with the eternal triangle and is given a new and diverting twist in this picture.

John Sterling, portrayed by Lewis Stone, is the wealthy, blunt American business man. Devotedly in love with his beautiful young wife, portrayed by the beautiful and charming Greta Garbo, yet ignoring her emotions and hunger for romance.

Phi Kappa Tau Wins Over Chi Alpha Sigma In Season's Best Game

The best game of the season in the Interfraternity Basketball League was played in the Frank Thompson gymnasium Tuesday night when Phi Kappa Tau won by a score of 17 to 16 from Chi Alpha Sigma.

There are only a few more games to be played before the winner of the tournament will be announced.

Theta Kappa Nu plays Sigma Phi for the championship of this group at an early date. Next week the championship games will be played off and the cup presented to the winner.

According to Director J. F. Miller the tournament was not as good this year as it was last, due to the fact that a number of teams waited until so late to enter that they were unable to get in, and the number of groups was limited.

Below is the standing of the separate teams this week:

Group	Team	Won.	Lost.
Group 1	Lambda Chi Alpha	1	2
	Kappa Alpha Sigma	1	1
	Phi Kappa Tau	3	0
	Kappa Sigma	0	3
Group 2	Phi Kappa Alpha	2	1
	Sigma Psi	3	0
	Sigma Nu	1	2
	Sigma Pi Epsilon	0	3
Group 3	Theta Kappa Nu	2	1
	Phi Kappa Phi	1	1
	Sigma Tau	2	0
	Sigma Tau Beta	0	3

and directed by Roy Del Ruth, coming to the State Theatre next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, has no silent sequences. Every foot of it is genuine Vitaphone. It also contains all the natural sound effects, such as the whirl of the three great motors of the monoplane that carries Blue and Warner on their dashes to the South Pole—the howling of the wind in the struts—the frightful roar of the Antarctic blizzard and the crash of the falling plane as well as gentler sounds, such as whistling—drumming on a straw hat—the telephone bell, and the rustle of silken skirts.

"Conquest" is based on the novel, "The Candle in the Wind," by Mary Inlay Taylor. Eve Unsell did the adaptation, and C. Graham Baker the scenario.

The second half was not so much basketball as it was thrills. First State would jump into a 1-point lead, only to have the Wake Forest boys sink a field goal from somewhere on the court to take the lead.

Doc. Sermon has developed two of the fastest forwards in freshmen circles, first of these chaps being Jim Brown, from Jamesville. Those who have seen him perform on the hardwood court rank him along with varsity forwards. His playing has been sensational from the first game, and he promises to give varsity players a merry chase for a varsity berth next winter. Woodard is the other fast-stepping forward. He hails from Washington, D. C., and ranks right along with Brown as a basketball trapper. This combination has given opposing teams much worry.

In the guard lay-out, "Redbud" Rose stands out. He is another good prospect for Tebell's machine. Then there are two more capable court performers in Ellington at center and Garfield at guard. Morgan, Stewart Hoaglin, Avera, and McLeod, regular reserves, also come in for honors.

The Wake Forest game was the last of the season for the Baby Freshmen and with it passes one of the fastest and best-working freshman machines State College has had in years.

The gymnasium was decorated in streamers of the fraternity colors.

The fraternity figure was led by Mr. "Mack" Greaves-Walker, president of the fraternity, and Miss "Bumps" Lewis of Tarboro, and favors of rings with the fraternity coat of arms on them were presented to each Sigma Pi girl. The University Club Orchestra played for the dance.

State College "Y" Sends Three Men To Program Conference

Joe E. Moore, president of the local Y. M. C. A., A. D. Stuart, and E. S. King, Secretary of the State College Y, represented this institution at the City Y. M. C. A. conference in High Point last Tuesday and Wednesday.

The purpose of the conference was to look back over the past and pick out the weaknesses in the programs of the different Y's and remedy them and try to better the good points and go on into 1929 with a bigger and better Y. M. C. A. throughout the state.

Between seventy-five and eighty secretaries and student representatives were present, representing most of the industrial as well as the city Y's and college organizations.

The chief speakers were R. H. King of Atlanta, regional secretary for the Y. M. C. A. of the South, and Sherwood Brockman, known as the greatest living missionary to China. Those present were stirred by the inspiring addresses made. The most important step made by the conference according to the interest of the college Y. M. C. A.'s was the decision to allow the students to keep their separate district and be represented separately at the National Council.

A movement had been made to combine the student Y's with the city organizations and have them represented jointly in the national council. The student organizations were pleased that the action taken on the matter ended in a decision to continue the separate student district.

Wednesday night the members were honored by a banquet at the Methodist Church in High Point, followed by several interesting addresses.

Mr. Stuart is the conference manager of the State College Y. M. C. A. and was interested in this particular conference in order to get aids on other similar conferences that are of concern to students especially.

In 1920 Professor H. E. Satterfield resigned as the head of the department of mechanical engineering and Professor Vaughan secured the position.

He was chairman of the board of trustees of the Y. M. C. A. for a number of years, and is also a member of Pine Burr, Tau Beta Pi, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, and a member of the Order of St. Patrick. He is well liked by all members of the student body, and each one extends him sympathy in this time of his misfortune.

SEVEN MEN INITIATED INTO PI DELTA SIGMA HONORARY FRATERNITY

Seven new members were initiated into Pi Delta Sigma, local honorary business fraternity, at an impressive meeting in the north end of the Y. M. C. A. Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. Their purpose is to petition Delta Sigma Pi, which is one of the largest national professional business fraternities. The petition will be sent off early in March. Professor E. E. Goehring, member of the local organization, and also a member and officer of the national organization, has hopes that the charter will be granted without much delay.

College 'Y' Radio Put In Use Wednesday Night; Good Program Received

Several State College students had memories of the old home brought back to them Wednesday night as they listened to the strains of "Sourwood Mountain," "Over the Waves," "Dem Golden Slippers," "Old Joe Clark," and "Turkey in the Straw," played by two real country "fiddlers," and a guitar and a banjo picker.

The hay had been cleared away from the floor, leaving it in an ideal condition for a real old-fashioned square dance. The cows had been driven into their respective stalls, while the old horse had been tied to a post on the outside. A number of sheep were wandering around in an adjoining lot while three or four chickens were perched on the rafters in one end of the barn wondering what all this was about. A blue and white pigeon sat in the eave of the roof wondering what all these strange proceedings were leading to.

The comparative quiet was suddenly broken by strains of laughter coming from the door as a number of young country lasses in gingham entered, accompanied by an equal number of swaggering young swains dressed in their shiny new shoes and trousers which were probably a few inches short in contrast with the styles at State College.

Finally the crowd had increased to about twenty or thirty couples, and the old cows were disturbed from chewing their "cud" by the cry, "Pick yore partners."

The State College boys present each picked out a good-looking girl and formed in the circle around the outer side of the barn floor. The musicians in one end of the barn suddenly broke into stirring strains of "Wreck of the Old 97"; a six-foot country lad yelled, "Half around the back"; they all joined hands and swung around to the right, keeping time to the music; and the barn dance was on.

The shuffling feet, the swaying musicians, the repetition of the old-time tunes through the whining strings of the fiddle, accompanied by the mooring of the cows, the bleating of the sheep, and the cries of "Swing the lady on the left," "Promenade all," "Right hand to your partner, right and left around the hall," and "Swing your partner," gave to the dancers an elation that is seldom found in any other kind of recreation.

A jug of soft (?) cider in one corner of the barn served to keep the interest up during the time between dances.

The night passed on, and the dancers took the steps more slowly, and the musicians played as if it were perpetual motion.

At last the strains of music died away and the State College boys came out of the "reverie" to find that they had been listening to Martin's melody boys in a barn dance program from station WBT, Charlotte, through the courtesy of the college Y. M. C. A. by the use of their radio.

Self-Help Club Takes In Twenty Members At Meet February 9

The Self-Help Club took in twenty new members Saturday, February 9, followed by the initiation last Saturday night.

The club gave a short party for the members and prospective members just before the vote was taken on the new men. Hot chocolate and cakes were served at the party, after which each man was asked to give his name and tell the kind of work which he was engaged in.

The Self-Help Club is a relatively new organization on the campus. It came into existence in the fall of 1927. At first anyone who was a self-help student was eligible for membership, but it was later divided to restrict the membership. Consequently, now one has to meet certain qualifications before he can become affiliated with the organization.

The members decided last year to have a room for the club. Hence, one was reserved in 1911 dormitory. This past fall some of the members returned early and began preparing the room for occupancy. So faithfully did they labor that by a week after school started the walls had been papered, the floor painted, soft chairs bought, and window curtains and pictures hung over windows and on the walls respectively.

The club room has a bulletin board on which good poems, quotations, and the like are posted. A collection of good books is also being assembled for the club members to read.

To be eligible for membership in the club one must have a certain scholastic standing, must have a good character, and must be working in a part of his way while in school.

The men taken into the club were: Red Adcock, T. B. Snipes, W. E. Bailey, Manly Pollock, Eugene Gold-ton, T. M. Fields, E. H. Harwood, W. K. Whitesell, J. G. Kirk, Joe Kelley, H. T. Gryder, R. S. Gennette, W. T. Henry, C. T. Clark, B. D. Robinson, E. M. Overton, R. M. Holder, Carlton Willis, Henry Winchester, and W. T. Wilson.

STATE WELL REPRESENTED PARENT EDUCATION MEET

Members State College Faculty Hold Important Places as Committeemen

State College played a leading rôle in the second State-wide Institute on Parental Education, held last week, February 14, 15, 16, with headquarters at the Woman's Club building in Raleigh. Eight other institutions of the state also contributed money, efforts, and time to the making of a successful meeting.

The first state-wide institute was held last February in Raleigh, with invitations being sent to all the parents of the state and to all professional people. It was a success, with 500 registering. This year there were fewer present, due to the bad weather, but the work done was greater.

There are tasks which none but parents can perform. There are relations which only parents can fill with their children. The questionings of childhood and youth can be answered safely only by wise parents who understand," said Alfred E. Stearns. The institution is based around this saying. It is its purpose to make the relationship between the parent and the child more simple.

Contrary to the system used last year, the program this year put out by the program committee, composed of T. E. Browne and Carl C. Taylor of State College, and Mrs. Kate Burr Johnson of the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare, comprised a series of lectures and open forums in conference style. The second day was featured by "round-table" discussions, in which parents brought up child problems and procedure for corrections presented.

A well-planned program was presented that brought before the members a discussion of all sides of the situation. The question of the child was divided into parts and addresses given on "Spiritual Adjustment of Adolescent Youth," "Place of Recreation in Child Development," "Child Guidance," "The Family and the Home," "The Physical Development of the Changing Child," and "The Home-School Relation." Speakers were secured from both state and nation. Dr. Caroline Hedger of Chicago talked on "The Problem of the Adolescent," and Dr. Frank Howard Richardson of Brooklyn talked on "Life More Abundantly."

It is hoped by the institute to promote these conferences regionally, thus bringing the benefits to all sections of the state. This is impossible at present, due to the fact that no appropriation is available to carry on such a wide program. At this early stage it is not even able to keep a full-time secretary.

Institutions contributing to the success of the organization are: the State Department of Education, North Carolina State College, University of North Carolina, North Carolina College for Women, Eastern Carolina Teachers College, State Department of Health, State Federation of Women's Clubs, State Parent-Teacher Association, and the State Board of Charities and Public Welfare. Each contributed one hundred dollars, its members, efforts and abilities to the cause.

Members of the State College faculty to aid with their services and talents were: T. E. Browne, chairman of the institute; Carl C. Taylor, Mrs. Jane S. McKimmon, John F. Miller, Carl C. Gaddison; S. R. Winston.

Dr. E. C. Linderman praises the institution for its valuable development of leadership toward the problem of the child. Professor T. E. Browne, of State College, chairman, was to a large extent responsible for the success of the council, those attending stated, praising his work and also the work of the other members on the program, and the securing of national speakers.

PULLEN SOCIETY TAKE IN TWENTY-FIVE MEN AT THE LAST MEETING

Twenty-five new men were initiated into Pullen Literary Society at its regular meeting February 22. This class is one of the largest taken into the society in several years, and marks the beginning of a "Bigger and Better" Pullen.

At this meeting a declamation by Carpenter and a debate, "Resolved, That the eight-hour day for common labor should be adopted," was featured. Moore and Sherrill upheld the affirmative, while Eisenberger and Callihan supported the negative.

John A. Litchfield gave several interesting humorous numbers, with looks and actions that would tickle one even if the jokes were not funny.

This Smoke Aids Artist To Nab Ideas

Independence, Mo. June 24, 1928.

Larus & Brother Co., Richmond, Va.

Perhaps you would like to know in just a word or so how I am in partners with Edgeworth in a business way. By profession I am a cartoonist, who you probably know is called upon to create new ideas. While this is ranked as the hardest part of the profession, I have proved it may easily be mastered, if a person will but recline in any easy chair, light a pipe, and live with imaginative persons in the aromatic smoke clouds that will soon fill the room. Edgeworth has given me more ideas than any other brand of tobacco, so I "married" my pipe to it quite a while ago. The result has been wonderful. The more you use Edgeworth, the more you crave it—not as a drug, but as a wholesome pleasure.

Complimenting the standard quality (which means more than the words signify) of Edgeworth, I am a devoted and profound user.

Yours very respectfully,
James W. Bright
