CLARK SAYS LABOR SHOULD PROSPER IF STATE ADVANCES

Is Only Alumnus of N. C. State in Upper House of the Assembly

GRADUATED IN CLASS OF 1903 WITH MAX GARDNER

Introduces Bill to Increase Membership of Trustees Board by Twenty and to Put Alumni in Preference for Positions.

By A. LAURANCE AYDLETT

"If the state is to prosper, labor must prosper. It ought to have a fair deal, and I don't want to see it imposed upon," was the way Senator Walter Clark of Mecklenburg, only graduate of State College in the upper house of the 1929 General Assembly, stated his position on the labor question in an interview especially for The Technician last Monday.

Senator Clark is the son of the late Chief Justice Walter Clark of the North Carolina Supreme Court, who served on the bench of that body for 35 years after his entrance in 1839, and serving as head of the judicial branch of the state government from 1902 until his death in 1924.

Walter Clark entered North Carolina State in the sophomore class of 1900 and graduated in 1903 as a mechanical engineer in a class of about 37 students. He was the third of his family to receive a degree from this institution, and behind him came two other brothers who graduated later. His is the only family, Senator Clark thinks, that has furnished five graduates to State College.

Among his classmates he mentioned O. Max Gardner, Governor of North Carolina, Walter Darden, now

OUTSTANDING SPEAKERS ON BLUE RIDGE PROGRAM

Every Student Given an Opportunity to Meet Them Personally

The Student Conference at Blue Ridge for the summer of 1929 is prepared to announce as its speakers Fletcher Brockman, Christian world statesman; T. Z. Koo, interpreter of the Orient to the West and inimitable in his presentation of the heart of the Christian message, and Dr. Henry Crane, regarded as the most acceptable speaker today to students of the eastern colleges and universities. Two other speakers of a similar caliber will be announced later.

Realizing that certain major life adjustments confront the students during their four years in college, and that they must decide what they are going to do about vocation, girls, religion, the church, education, etc., all baffling experiences, and that

MITCHNER WALKS TO CARY FOR $5.00 OFFERED BY FROSH

The opportunity to make five dollars so easy was taken by S. R. Mitchner, junior, when Freshman McGhee of South dormitory offered that amount to anyone that would walk to Cary and back.

It was past ten o'clock Monday night when the marathon runner began his long and lonesome trudge toward the neighboring city. At two o'clock he returned, the sixteen miles having been covered. But, according to Mitchner, it is not such an easy way to make five dollars as one might think.

Terms Cullins Contract Made Public By Brooks

In a statement given The Technician this week Dr. E. C. Brooks, president of State College, explained the terms of the contract between the institution and J. B. Cullins, operator of the campus laundry, who was brought into considerable prominence recently when he struck J. Paul Choplin, Winston-Salem junior, over the head with a shotgun, resulting in slight injuries to the student and boycotting of the cleaning establishment by the student body.

Dr. Brooks' statement is as follows:

"An agreement was entered into between State College and Mr. J. B. Cullins on the first day of January, 1923, in order to provide satisfactory laundry service for the students of State College. Under the agreement the College is to supply space in the basement of the dining hall, free of charge, and other service for which Mr. Cullins is to pay actual cost. Mr. Cullins is authorized to install necessary machinery for doing the laundry work for the students and the College and is permitted to install machinery for pressing clothes.

"The purpose of the agreement, as I said above, was to secure for the students of the College satisfactory laundry service at a reasonable charge. In the agreement Mr. Cullins may terminate his contract at any time upon six months written notice, and the College may terminate it 'for unsatisfactory laundry service' by Mr. Cullins, but the College must first give Mr. Cullins thirty days notice to comply with the terms of the agreement, that is, to make the laundry service satisfactory, and if it is not satisfactory by the expiration of thirty days, the College then may terminate the agreement upon six months written notice.

"Mr. Cullins has been notified in accordance with the terms of the agreement that the laundry service is unsatisfactory, but before the agreement may be terminated, we must comply with its terms."

Interest Groups Talk About Many Subjects While At Blue Ridge

One of the features of the Blue Ridge Conference which State College men enjoyed most last summer was the Interest Groups.

These groups discussed vital issues of the present time under the guidance of a man who had had wide experience in the fields being discussed. Some of the groups were as follows: Men and Women Relationships, Southern Industry, International Relations, Science and Religion, Personal Vocational Problems, The Church, Race Relations, Politics, Campus Problems, Recreation.

This feature of the conference will be continued again this year. So varied are the questions that will be considered that the student who would not be interested in at least one of them is considered a rare specimen.

Fifty-six Colleges Represented by Two Hundred and Forty-two Delegates - Regular Program Followed

Two hundred and forty-two delegates represented fifty-six colleges at the annual Students' Y. M. C. A. Conference, which was held at Blue Ridge, North Carolina, last June 15 to 25.

State College was represented at this conference by A. D. Stuart, J. E. Moore, W. P. Albright, E. W. Buchanan, R. E. Byrd, W. B. Callihan, R. H. Gatlin, W. D. Stephenson, C. L. Clark, Dean E. L. Cloyd, H. C. Green, E. S. King, and W. N. Hicks.

A regular program was followed each day of the conference. At 7 o'clock taps were sounded for rising and breakfast was served at 7:30. The worship period began at 8:30.

Dr. Tallaferra Thompson of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va., had charge of the worship period until 9 o'clock. The delegates were then requested to go out into the woods alone for prayer, meditation, and to study themselves.

The orientation meeting was led by Dr. Harrison Elliott from 9:30 to 10:30. The purpose of this meeting was to interpret the life and teachings of Jesus in terms of present-day knowledge and experience. Dr. Elliott also reviewed briefly the outstanding points that had been discussed in the lectures during the previous day.

The interest groups, which were

VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE SPECIAL FEATURE OF Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

By E. L. CLOYD

For many years the Young Men's Christian Association has been interested in the development of the Vocational Guidance Movement, but not until the summer of 1928 was Vocational Guidance or Educational Counseling made a definite part of the program of the Y. M. C. A. Conference at Blue Ridge.

Mr. Owen E. Pence, research secretary of the Personnel Division of the National Council of Y. M. C. A., was secured to direct the counseling service, and there were associated with him a committee of outstanding men of representative southern colleges.

The plan of work was for this group to meet with Mr. Pence for an hour and a half each day to discuss problems and technique. Each counselor then agreed to meet with from three to five students who asked for counseling service for at least one hour each day.

In carrying out the counseling service there was no effort on the part of any counselor to send the student away at the end of the ten-day period with his life work all laid out for him and his success assured. Such a procedure would have been impossible as well as utterly foolish.

What the counselors did endeavor to do was, first of all, to become thoroughly acquainted with the students assigned to them. Following this they attempted to discover certain "vocational tendencies" in the individual, and, finally, to try to point

Lee School For Boys Is Latest Enterprise Of Blue Ridge Conference

Lee School for Boys is the latest of the enterprises of the Blue Ridge Association, having opened its doors in September, 1928. It has had a remarkable recognition and growth in its brief existence.

It has drawn patronage from fifteen states and two foreign countries. The enrollment for the current year has nearly doubled that of the first year, and its achievements in developing character and establishing standards have been equally encouraging.

Lee School believes with one leading college president that preparation for college life is as important as preparation for college studies. Therefore, both are done at Lee School with equal thoroughness. A thorough study of the Bible and a sane and intelligent attitude to religion are cultivated.

Because the boarding school touches every phase of the boy's life, it is peculiarly fitted to carry out such a program. For this reason a boy who comes here the very best training and foundation for the future success of college.

State College Is Eliminated From Appropriation Fund

OTHER SCHOOLS OF STATE GET LIMITED ALLOTMENTS

$120,000 Asked For By State College Denied and Request of the University For One Million Is Refused—Get $264,000 Recommended by the Budget Commission.

A cut of $120,000 in particular lopped off the permanent improvement fund of State by the joint appropriations committee of the Senate and the House last Wednesday afternoon took away from State College its dreamed-of new dormitory, which was to cost that much.

State College got the biggest cut of any of the state institutions, while the State School for the Deaf at Morganton received the greatest appropriation by the Budget Commission.

The University of North Carolina, which had asked for more than a million dollars for permanent improvements, will get only the $264,000 recommended by the Budget Commission. If the University has any of this sum left over, the legislators will allow the officials of that institution to spend it for books.

The Budget Commission recommended $37,500 for the North Carolina College for Women at Greensboro and $23,000 for the East Carolina Teachers College at Greenville. That's what both institutions will get.

The State Hospital received a cut of $25,000 over the amount recommended, the recommended amount

STUDENTS VISIT BLUE RIDGE FOR 16 YEARS

Fifty Thousand People Guests in Sixteen Years of the Conference

Fifty thousand people have been guests at Blue Ridge in the sixteen summers it has been open. It was originally planned for conferences of college men and women, who met there under the auspices of the Student Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. But these boys and girls told their parents and these began coming to this wonderful spot in the mountains.

In order to meet the needs of these mature people who came for rest and inspiration, seventy rooms with private baths were added, and these are now taxed to capacity most of the summer by those who find here an ideal fellowship in the midst of the

State College Sends Three To Presidents' School Last Year

The managers of the Blue Ridge Conference have specially designed a President's Training School from June 6 to July 17, to train the officers of the different college associations to become effective student leaders during the following year.

Last year State College had three men at this officers' training school, including Joe E. Moore, H. C. Green, and W. P. Albright. It is the hope of the College that an equal number of men can be sent to each conference of the different college associations to become effective student leaders during the following year.

Specifically designed courses to meet the need of student association presidents are provided. They include "The Life and Teachings of Jesus," with attention to the technique of organizing and conducting classes on a campus-wide basis; a course on "The Basic Principles of the Christian Religion," and a period each day to consider "The Task of an Association President." The faculty will include Dr. W. D. Weatherford, president of the Y. M. C. A. Graduate School; Dr. Thornburg Workman of Vanderbilt University School of Religion; Mr. O. R. Magill and Mr. C. B. Loomis of the National Council Student Division Staff.

To enroll in this school a student must have completed at least sophomore work in college, must be specifically related to the volunteer Christian association of the campus, and must take all of the three regular courses offered.

ADMIT 154 TEAMS IN CAGE TOURNEY HERE NEXT WEEK

Miller Will Publish Record of Seventy-two Best Teams

STATE MEN COOPERATE IN HOUSING PLAYERS

State College Tournament Expects to Put a Grand Finale to the High School Basketball Season Similar to That of the Southern Conference Tournament for Colleges.

By FRANCIS TRIPP

Preparations for the big Invitational High School Basketball Tournament to be held at State College the last three days of next week have been nearly completed, and present indications point to one of the best tournaments ever staged here.

John F. Miller, head of the tournament committee, plans to publish the list of 72 teams presenting the best records, and from this list the first-round drawings will be made. Early in the season 154 teams applied for admission. At noon Thursday 95 applications had been received, indicating that the final total will be well over the century mark.

In the past, last-minute appeals from teams eliminated in the state elimination race have been received, and to overcome this obstacle the tournament at State College was scheduled a week later this year, to cooperate with the high schools. For some unknown reason the state elimination was carded a week later, thus creating an unfavorable situation from all angles.

Nevertheless, 13 of the 16 teams in the state elimination race have sent in their entry blanks and fees to the State College tournament committee, although they have not yet been forced from the elimination race, which has its championship game scheduled at Chapel Hill on the same date as the final games in the State College tournament.

The tournament at State College gives the high schools an opportunity to play in their respective classes, making it possible for the schools to battle for honors in their separate divisions; whereas the state elimination series is similar to a regular schedule, because opponents have to play in one class. The State College finals to the high school basketball season similar to that of the Southern Conference Tournament for colleges. All these teams enter in their respective classes and play under ideal conditions of officiating and on one of the best courts in the state.

The students at State College are eagerly looking forward to the start of play next week. All the teams will be quartered in the dormitories during the carnival. Thus far only four rooms out of 100 have refused to provide for a player, indicating unusual cooperation of the student body. Director Miller said that the distribution of tournament tickets will begin Monday, and it is thought that nearly every student at State College will purchase a ticket that will entitle him to witness the entire tournament at less than one cent a game. The price of the tickets are fifty cents, and as this is the price charged for the championship games on the night of March 9, tickets should vanish quickly once they are put in circulation.

Entries received with entry fees up to March 27:

Class A

Asheville, Forest City, Gastonia, Greenville, Greensboro, High Point, Lexington, New Bern, Raleigh, Shelby, Wilson.

Class B

out to each individual those occupations or professions in which these vocational tendencies might find their fullest expression in service.

There were about sixty-one students at the conference who asked for counseling service, and these distributed about evenly among the counselors.

In addition to these individual interviews running throughout the whole ten days, there were two vocational forums and a number of vocational information groups in which a leader undertook to discuss with a larger group of students the particular field or profession in which they were interested. Throughout the entire conference a vocational library was maintained in a room in Robert E. Lee Hall. Here were placed quite a number of the best books and pamphlets dealing with the occupations and professions. A keen interest was shown in the library, and the students spent much time reading.

At the close of the conference the committee in charge attempted to secure the opinion of the students as to the value of the counseling service. This was accomplished by requesting each student to fill out a questionnaire in which he stated very frankly his opinion about the plan in general, and the methods used. It will probably be interesting to note some of the replies to the questionnaire. The number following each reply indicates the number of students answering in practically the same way:

- "Splendid—of great value"—16.
- "Of good value—well worth doing"—31.
- "Exceedingly profitable"—18.
- "Very pleasant and probably of real benefit"—29.
- "Found some fairly useful indications about my ability"—32.
- "Discovered large number of new lines to explore and understand"—23.
- "Saw possibilities on campus in new and significant light"—17.
- "My outlook greatly changed, deepened, broadened, on subject of vocation"—28.

There were a small number of students who felt that they did not receive any real benefit from the experience, but the majority were of the opinion that the experiment should be continued another year.

glories of the rugged mountains and the quiet of the woods and streams.

The next step was to add a boys' camp, where parents who had boys might feel that the boy had the advantages of the finest leadership, the best food, and the most stimulating surroundings.

The Asheville Hall was built, where college students who wanted might live and study in the Y. M. C. A. Graduate School summer quarter. Fifty colleges are represented in the student body each summer.

So, the whole family, mother, dad, college boys and girls, and younger boys, is provided for. There is also a wonderful playground and kindergarten for little children.

Everybody plays at Blue Ridge, whether they be three or ninety. For those who are robust there is swimming, boating, mountain climbing, tennis, golf, horseback riding, volley ball, basketball, baseball, and for those who like less strenuous exercise, there are wonderful shady paths on the lake, auto trips, etc.

Blue Ridge is open from June 4 to September 1. The conferences do not fill all space, so that any college man may invite his parents to be there during the conference period or later.

For the first time this summer there will be a special dining room, where meals will be served for longer hours, so that people who are resting may sleep later, or have later meals in the evening. The rates in Lee Hall and the cottages are the same for others as for the students in the conferences. Information is given to anyone writing the Executive Secretary of the Blue Ridge Association, Y. M. C. A. Graduate School, Nashville, Tenn.

Clark Says Labor Should Prosper If State Progresses

holding a prominent position with the Seaboard Air Line Railway in Savannah, and Charles B. Ross, of Charlotte.

Would Increase Trustees

That Senator Clark is mindful of his alma mater is shown in the fact of his introduction of a bill in the upper house to increase the trustees of the college from 60 to 80 and to put alumni of the institution on the board as far as possible.

"The way it stands now," Senator Clark said, "there are several good men on the board of trustees of the college, but their prevailing interests are elsewhere. I want to see graduates of the school on the board because it is they who will be most interested in the upbuilding of the institution.

"The legislature appoints the trustees, and few of our men are in the General Assembly," he continued.

After receiving his degree from State College, Senator Clark studied at the University of North Carolina, where he graduated in law. After a summer in Europe, he returned to this country to take up his legal work at George Washington University in the nation's capital city.

His legal practice was begun in this city after he had received his license—the only man, he believes, who made 100 per cent on the examination prescribed by the Supreme Court.

Aids Attorney General

Just at this time Attorney General Robert D. Gilmer, who had been in poor health for some time, was temporarily incapacitated, and for about three months Walter Clark did the work of his office. This happened one month after he had received his license.

Three years practice before the highest court in the state is the requirement before an attorney can appear before the United States Supreme Court, but at this time, under special papers from the governor, Walter Clark went to Washington in a case involving the state of North Carolina and won his case.

Chief Justice Walter Clark, Sr., saw his son win 15 out of the 18 cases he argued before the North Carolina Supreme Court in the three months the present State Senator appeared before that body. Senator Clark believes he is the youngest man in history to go before the federal court as he did during this period of his life.

Clark then became city attorney of Raleigh for about two years until called to the Mexican border during the Villa troubles about the time of the World War. Here he spent a year in and around El Paso, Texas. When the Thirtieth Division went overseas, Clark was along, and in this connection spent about a year in France.

Since he had married a Charlotte girl, Clark moved to the Queen City on his return to America, and has since been practicing law there. A majority of 9,000 in Mecklenburg county out of 15,000 total sent him into the Senate chamber of the General Assembly, the largest vote ever polled in that section for any legislative candidate.

Says College Life Same

When asked if he saw much difference in the youth of the nation in college today and the same youth of the nation in the first years of the century, Senator Clark laughed and said:

"Oh, it's about the same; human nature doesn't change much."

When the Mecklenburg legislator entered State College, during the presidency of George T. Winston, for whom the chemistry building is named, there were about 500 students here, he said.

He was questioned about North Carolina's new governor and his activities at this institution.

"Gardner was always in politics at that time," he said. "He was always mixed up in all the social and political activities he could get into.

"No, he wasn't much of a bookworm; he made fairly good grades, but politics seemed his greatest desire."

And that brings the story of another of North Carolina State's distinguished alumni to the place Max Gardner once occupied as the Senator from Cleveland.

of $112,000 for the women's isolation building being cut to $102,000, and the recommended appropriation of $125,000 for the epileptic building being cut to $110,000.

The recommended appropriation of $500,000 for the State Fair's building appropriation was cut to $224,139, the exact amount of the deficit on the building already constructed.

Other increases granted were: $25,000 to the Caswell Training School; $5,500 for the State Normal School for Negroes at Elizabeth City; $57,800 for the State School for the Deaf at Morganton; and $23,800 to the Cherokee Normal School.

Terrors End Season With Davidson and V.M.I. Wins

Captain Young Stars as N. C. State Wins 26 to 19

The North Carolina State College basketball team, under the leadership of "Hank" Young, closed its Southern Conference schedule with a 42-32 victory over the Virginia Military Institute five last Friday evening, in the Frank Thompson gymnasium.

Captain Young was up to his old-time standard and tossed in a total of 15 points during the game. Larry Haar was close behind, with 5 field goals and a foul, for a total of 11 points. The V. M. I. quintet were all ways dangerous and kept State plugging hard throughout the game. Captain Jack Horner, the Cadet's left forward, played a sensational game and tossed in numerous shots from difficult angles. He was the main cog in the visitors lineup.

V. M. I. played State on near even terms during the first part of the opening period. Their clean play and great sportsmanship drew the favor of the crowd. Towards the close of the half a field goal by Goodwin broke a 10-10 tie and from then on State increased the lead until the half-time, when the score stood 26-19.

During the first six minutes of the second half neither team was able to score. Captain Young's playing was particularly brilliant during this period, and it was he who finally broke the non-scoring spell by sinking two successive baskets. V. M. I. resorted to long shots that proved effective at certain stages of the game. Coach Tebell used numerous substitutes and shifted his players frequently.

State College Keeps Special Cottage For Blue Ridge Gathering

After a delegate has registered at Blue Ridge and begins to look over the grounds he will see cottages bearing the names of various colleges, such as University of "N. C.-N. C. C. W.," "Clemson-Winthrop," "Florida." There is one bearing the name "N. C. State-Coker." This cottage was donated to the Blue Ridge Association by N. C. State College students and Coker College students. During the Y. W. C. A. conference the Coker delegation occupies the cottage, and during the Y. M. C. A. conference the N. C. State College delegation has the privilege of staying in it. The cottage is one of the best on the grounds.

Goodwin Ends Basketball Career as High Scorer

The N. C. State College "Red Terrors" closed their home schedule in an auspicious manner by defeating a scrapping Davidson College cage team by a 30-22 score on the Frank Thompson court last Saturday night. The victory gives State the third place standing in the Big Five race.

Davidson presented unexpected opposition and threw a scare into the Wolfpack camp during the second half when they pulled up to within three points of their rivals. At this point State's defense strengthened and with their offense functioning more smoothly they managed to gain back a comfortable lead before the final gun.

Frank Goodwin, playing his final game on the local court, was the high scorer for the evening, with a total of 15 points. Captain Young repeated his performance of the night previous and played great basketball. Pritchett, the Wildcat pivot, was easily the outstanding man in the visitors lineup. He played a good defensive game and scored 10 of his team's 22 points.

Brock Now President Freshman Friendship Council By Election

At the regular meeting of the Freshman Friendship Council last Sunday Henry Brock was elected to head the organization for this year.

The other officers elected were as follows: C. S. Ireson, secretary-treasurer; first vice-president, D. C. Rogers; second vice-president, N. Gross; reporter, W. C. Bangs.

These men were elected from a number who were nominated for the different offices the preceding Sunday afternoon.

Following the election of officers the council, under the leadership of Joe E. Moore, took up the discussion of "The Distinctive Message of Christ." Many of the fellows expressed their opinion on the different thoughts that were presented.

At the meeting tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 the topic for discussion will be a continuation of the same subject. At this time some of the members will speak on different phases of the subject.

"Do you believe in marriage?"
"Only as a last resort."

Poor Working Girls Are Given Party At Blue Ridge Meeting

At the Blue Ridge Conference last June the Kentucky and North Carolina delegates to the Boys' Conference, in accord with the usual hospitality of these states, gave a party in honor of the P.W.G.'s (Poor Working Girls). The Kentucky cottage was selected as the basis for the frivolity and fun. A similar party will be a feature of this year's conference.

The cottage was gorgeously decorated in the colors of Kentucky, Berea, Duke, U. N. C., N. C. State, and a few others. Pennants from all the different schools were attractively placed on the walls of the cottage.

The P.W.G.'s with their escorts were made to feel as much at home as possible amid the overhanging decorations and chaperones.

Soon after the guests had arrived the fun of the evening began, headed up by Liston Pope of Duke and Phil Aswerus of Kentucky. Weird singing was one of the features. From one section of the rugged mountain woods near the cottage came the enchanting words of Ramona.

When they died down, their echo began to come forth, much to everyone's surprise. Mr. Hill of Alabama and Mr. Wulfeck, treasurer of the conference, were the perpetrators of this weird act, answering each other's words from a distance, resembling an echo.

After much cheering from the different delegations and a few more interesting entertainments, punch was served. The sounding of the 10:30 trumpet brought the gala party to a close, reminding the P.W.G.'s that it was bedtime.

Wolfpack Candidates Play Exhibition Game Before Large Crowd

The first exhibition game between two picked teams composed of candidates for the 1929 North Carolina State College Wolfpack was played on the Freshman Field Wednesday before a large gathering of students.

The Bears defeated the Wolves by a 20 to 6 score. Morgan, Squires, May, and Lepo played swell in the line for the Wolves. N. Jeffreys played a good game in the backfield for the Bears, with Gorham, Vann, and Wright doing the bulk of the work in the line.

Games will be played every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon until the end of the present spring training period.

State Basketeers At Southern Meet In Atlanta, Ga.

North Carolina State College basketball team left the campus Wednesday night for the Southern Conference Tournament at Atlanta, Ga., where sixteen select college basketball teams battle for the championship in the eighth annual tournament, which opened yesterday afternoon.

State is listed in the upper bracket together with Georgia Tech, Clemson, Tennessee, Louisiana State, Washington and Lee, University of Maryland, and the University of Mississippi, last year's champions. In the lower bracket are Kentucky, Georgia, Auburn, Tulane, Duke, University of North Carolina, and Mississippi A. and M. The quarter finals will be played Saturday, the semifinal games start Monday, with the final game carded for Tuesday night.

State drew the strong University of Tennessee five as an opponent in the opening round, and if victorious will meet the winner of the Clemson and Georgia Tech game in the quarter finals today.

The Wolfpack closed its regular season here last week by defeating V. M. I. and Davidson on successive nights. During the past week Coach Tebell has drilled his outfit hard in preparation for the opening tilt. He will start his strongest line-up, composed of Captain Young and Larry Haar at forwards, Frank Goodwin at center, and Johnson and Bob Warren at guards.

Officials for the tournament are S. B. Sutton of Pennsylvania, Paul Menton of Baltimore, and Tom Thorpe of New York.

COST FOR BLUE RIDGE CONFERENCE ONLY $32 FOR TEN-DAY SOJOURN

The total cost of spending ten days at the Blue Ridge Conference from June 14-24 is $32.00. A room in Robert E. Lee Hall and meals for ten days cost $25.00. The rooms and meals are first class.

The program fee is seven dollars. This goes to pay the cost of promoting the conferences and the expenses of the leaders, many of whom come from distant cities and even from across the water.

The other expenses depends on the habits of the individuals. Some fellows buy candy and drinks on the side and some do not. Some travel in Pullman cars and eat on diners while others travel by Ford and eat at Greek restaurants. The fellows from Mississippi meet at some central point in the state and travel by covered wagon (old car rigged up for the occasion.)

In former years assistance in sending delegates who are unable to pay all their expenses has been secured from Sunday schools and churches in Raleigh and elsewhere. Perhaps this will be done again. Students who desire to go will have a way found for them.

Now all our new rooming space is taken away from us. Oh, legislators, have you no hearts!

It seems that the Y is being turned into a cafeteria. As we walked into our daytime domicile yesterday we almost stepped on a wedge of pie that was calmly reposing in the center of the lobby floor.

A suggestion was made to Blue Key yesterday that the attention of the president and of the board of trustees be called to the condition of the grounds about the gymnasium during an athletic contest or a social function in wet weather. It was described as a disgrace to the college, and to this we wish to add our "amen." The suggested cinders would greatly help. Why isn't something done about it?

Dean E. L. Cloyd, who was one of the vocational counselors at Blue Ridge during the conference last year, says: "I cannot speak for the students who were counseled, but I can speak as one who took part in the counselling—that the fellowship with the students and with the other counselors was one of the most stimulating educational experiences in which it has been my good fortune to have a part."

Is something wrong with State College that so many of the better material on the faculty are turning in their resignations? Far better would it be if the school would reinforce its instruction staff rather than expand in size for mass-production of educated beings. Some of the men who have accepted positions elsewhere are too good for State College, although we hate to put the school in that light. We wish to give due credit, and other institutions have realized such a fact. That is why they are leaving us. Shall the board of trustees see the best men on the faculty go away? And we hear rumors of others who are planning to go.

WHY BLUE RIDGE?

Great men of the day have recognized the need for some place where students could go in the summer months to an environment and a set of conditions that were conducive to deep thought. Beautiful Blue Ridge, with all of its charm and loveliness, cannot be surpassed as a fulfillment of that desire, for it is born of the clean, rare air of the hills, of the glorious freedom of the great mountains, and the cool summer breezes and rippling, running waters.

It is located in the heart of the most rugged mountains of North Carolina and stands at an elevation of 2,700 feet—upon an estate of 1,619 acres of virgin forest. Among other things which are to be found upon its ground are fifty-six modern buildings, including a splendid gymnasium, a library, a garage, athletic fields, tennis and volley ball courts, a swimming and boating lake, miles of rhododendron and laurel bordered trails for hiking and horseback riding.

In addition to the inspiration obtained from the nearness to the glowing rhododendron, the rippling streams, the whispering trees, and all of nature in its greatest beauty, some of the greatest personalities of the country are there to add their beauty to your own personality. Great messages of religion, problems of life, and other things that are of vital importance, can always be heard.

Some of the finest girls in the Southland remain at Blue Ridge throughout the summer, aiding in different kinds of work, and this gives opportunity for social life in its finest meaning.

Every student who goes there is enthused with it all beyond expression.

In other words, if you are seeking an ideal vacation place and want to find rest, recreation, fine fellowship, inspiration, and everything else that makes for a most satisfying experience—including real comfort and wholesome food, then Blue Ridge is your place and invites you.

WORKMEN'S CONFERENCE

It has taken the State of North Carolina a long time to fall in line with the rest of the Union in its recognition of the rights and welfare of the workingman, but at last a start has been made.

Although not of the best, the workmen's compensation legislation as passed this week by the Upper House of the 1929 General Assembly will cleave a pathway for future action to rebuild the status of the daily laborer.

One of the greatest drawbacks in the South is the low wage scale that has been prevalent for so long. Now that northern industries are seeking new quarters to escape high rents and overhead costs, they will bring to the southern factory worker jobs of numerous kinds.

With the influx of the industrial captains should come a plan of State legislation all through the section to provide safety, comfort, and satisfaction as far as possible for the man who turns the machines.

Although, of course, all the profits cannot be taken from capital because the risks assumed in investing in enterprises are much greater than those of the workers, yet at the same time the industrial barons should not be allowed to exploit those in their employ for their own benefit.

We have for some time wanted to see a secret ballot law in North Carolina, as well as a workmen's compensation act. The two measures passed by this Legislature are sufficient to begin with; they can be changed for the better later on.

In addition to these two actions, we feel the State would greatly benefit by a child labor enactment, such as has been made by some of the most progressive states industrially. The time is not when the enterprises have become firmly established in the State and have their invisible hands on the reins, but the most opportune time is before they appear; yet after the exodus from other sections have started to provide for future problems they will cause.

And now North Carolina has taken a few forward steps. Shall it remain on the up-grade, or shall we mark time for several years until it will be difficult to meet the necessities of the day?

THE CAFETERIA

Once every two weeks we have to satisfy the inner man by partaking of the victuals for sale in the campus self-service establishment, and once every two weeks we are reminded of the, to us, poor rating of said cafeteria.

The spoon which we dipped into our coffee yesterday had not been cleanly washed and particles of dried food were sticking thereto, and had to be removed by brisk rubbing with a paper napkin.

And then when we went after the camel's diet, we were once more brought up against the most irritating water cooler. There are two water coolers in the establishment, one at each end of the room, and we were told some time ago the college had installed or replaced them on the average of one each year since the cafeteria began operating.

The large, white cooler at the upper end of the room appeared out of commission—it has appeared that way each of the last six times we entered the place. The cooler at the other end of the hall has two faucets, one of which absolutely refuse to give forth water and the other emitting a fluid in a small quantity but with considerable spluttering and splashing that covers one with a mist.

We have to admit the huckleberry pie tasted very good, and the milk and coffee likewise. Yet this did not lessen our wish for the brown bread or rye bread in place of the hot rolls that all know lay very heavy on the stomach. And we happen to know that several others would also prefer something other than white bread, at least they did last year.

The food-stuck utensils and the spitting water cooler were our greatest disgruntlement. How long would such an establishment remain open downtown? Students at the college have very little choice of eating places, and are forced to take what service anyone desires to give them.

There has been considerable displeasure expressed at the service of the laundry establishment beneath and on the other side of the same building. Since we have used the cleaning establishment but little, its activities struck at us lightly, although we hated to see others hold the bag.

But one thing we never could stand is to have our meals made unenjoyable by poorly cleaned utensils and getting soaked with water before eating, after standing in line several minutes to get a glass under the faucet.

CAMPAIGNING

We are going to harp again on the campaign speeches for student candidates this spring. Time is fast passing and election dates are rapidly drawing near. Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their college and speak out on the subject. Let's have some action on the matter.

Not only that, but there is also the matter of a secret ballot for the institution. This, in our opinion, is one of the greatest needs of the school, although there are so many things that could be put in this category one has difficulty in safely making such a statement. Times are drawing around, boys. Are we going to have free talks and a secret ballot or are we not? What's the campus opinion on the subject? Let us hear from you.

SPECIAL GROUP STUDY PROBLEMS OF COLLEGE

One Hour Each Day Given to Problems of Young Men's Christian Association

"To carry on the work of any student organization or activity successfully requires that those in charge acquire the proper technique for performing their duties. The work of the Student Young Men's Christian Association is no exception to the rule," says E. S. King.

At Blue Ridge one hour each evening is devoted to studying the best methods for carrying on student "Y" work. Last year the following groups were conducted: President and Officers' Group, Religious Education, Christian World Education, Community Service, Campus Opinion, Work With Freshmen, Membership Problems.

Each group was in charge of a professor secretary, fitted by experience and training to lead the discussion on the problems his group was studying. In these groups students from ten southern states shared their experience with each other. Thus, the delegates from State College profited by the experience of students from V. P. I., Clemson, A. and M. of Mississippi, and many other colleges and universities in the south. This year State looks forward to a larger delegation, and therefore more trained leaders and better "Y" work next year.

If you have laughs, prepare to use them when you see the new all-talking melodrama coming to State Theatre Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. "The Dummy" is the strangest and most amusing entertainment to be produced in the new medium which has added so much enjoyment to the moving picture theatre.

An excellent cast, headed by Ruth Chatterton, Fredric March, and John Cromwell, enacts this melodrama. Two brilliant and likeable youngsters, Mickey Bennett and Vondell Darr, do some excellent work.

In addition to "The Dummy," Fox Movietone News, a chorus girl comedy, "Picture My Astonishment," two vaudeville presentations, "Song of the Roses" in technicolor, and Erskine and Ayer rendering popular songs will be presented.

Few countries offer so rich an opportunity as Mexico for brilliant stage settings and for kaleidoscopic costume coloring, and in "Rio Rita," which comes to the State Theatre Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 7-8-9, with matinee on Saturday, every opportunity has been grasped, and, according to advance report, a succession of voluptuous scenes are unfolded before the spectators. The action of "Rio Rita" takes place in northern Mexico, in and about a quaint and colorful hacienda, in a dungeon, and on board a floating cabaret on the Rio Grande, blazing with color and life. Every conceivable costume has been created for this spectacular operetta, combining all the picturesque styles which so gracefully adorn the youthful senoritas. "Rio Rita" has been styled "The Incomparable," and certainly it is the most successful of any musical comedy produced within the past decade.

Seats will be on sale at the box office Monday, March 4th.

The Palace Theatre, beginning Monday, March 4th, will present George Jessel in his first singing-talking production, "Lucky Boy." It tells the story of the rise of a boy from New York's East Side to Broadway fame and a position in society through marriage to one of its fairest daughters.

Jessel sings from start to finish of the picture, there being five songs heard in it, and he also engages in a lot of dialogue and wise-cracking. With a music shop, vaudeville, a night club, and a Broadway musical show the background for most of the action, "Lucky Boy" promises to be something quite unique in sound pictures. It is a Tiffany-Stahl production, directed by Norman Taurag and Charles C. Wilson from a story by Viola Brothers Shore, with sound recorded by RCA Photophone.

State College Boys
At Blue Ridge Meet
Friends At Ridgecrest

Nearness of Ridgecrest and Montreat add to the advantages of social life at Blue Ridge.

In addition to the some fifty or sixty girls who remain at Blue Ridge all summer, Ridgecrest, three miles distant, and Montreat, three and a half miles away, have several hundred girls at their conferences during the time of the Y. M. C. A. conference at Blue Ridge.

Numbers of the boys last year took advantage of this situation. Hikes, picnics, and moonlight strolls were planned and executed.

Some of the State College delegation to Blue Ridge last summer and a number of the Meredith College delegation to Ridgecrest planned several hikes that were particularly enjoyable to State boys because of their interest in Meredith.

Overlooking both Ridgecrest and Blue Ridge and west of Blue Ridge is a tall peak almost five thousand feet in height. On the last afternoon of the conference five of State's delegation accompanied by an equal number of Meredith girls, hiked to the top of this peak as a climax to the general good times. On the southern slope of the peak near the top was found hundreds of sweet, juicy wild strawberries. After spending a good part of an hour enjoying the delicious berries the party climbed on to the top of the mountain and to the top of a tower which adorned the peak.

After spending two or three hours taking pictures of the surroundings and each other, the party hiked back to Ridgecrest, where they parted with many expressions of their hope and belief that the same kind of experiences would be re-enacted in the following June.

held from 10:30 to 11:45, had probably more educative value than any other phase of the conference program. These groups were devoted to such a large variety of subjects that delegates could get helpful information on almost any problem they were facing. In reality, these interest groups were forums led by men who are specialists in the fields to which the particular groups directed their attention.

The afternoon was given over to such activities as swimming, hiking, baseball, volleyball, basketball, tennis, and nature study. A definite number of points were credited to those who took part in the athletic contests.

At 7 o'clock the technique groups met for the purpose of instructing delegates in the ways and means of meeting campus problems.

From 8 to 9:30 Dr. W. W. Alexander, Dr. W. L. Poteat, and men of like caliber gave addresses describing their religious experiences or those of their intimate friends.

Dean E. L. Cloyd was one of the men who took part in the vocational counseling work this past summer.

State College plans to send at least twenty-five men to the conference this coming June 14-24, where a similar program will be followed, with many improvements.

On Blue Ridge Program

most of the students are puzzled by the difficulties involved and make choices blindly and disastrously, the leaders of the conference have secured these men and many others as assistants to guide students in these important phases of life.

Every student will be given the opportunity to spend a period in intimate daily contact with this group of outstanding older Christian men skilled in counseling.

With adequate provision for personal conference, forum, and group discussion, inspiring presentations, and ample time for quiet meditation in the seclusion of the mountains, they believe that an almost unparalleled opportunity is made available.

The best skilled leadership to be found is being drawn from colleges and universities, both north and south. For the vocational counseling service there will be a group of counselors selected from southern colleges, who will give their whole thought and time to the personal needs of individual students. This part of the program is being planned and carried through by a group of college deans under the chairmanship of President H. W. Chase, of the University of North Carolina. Dean Francis F. Bradshaw has been named as expert leader of this group in the field of counseling, and associated with him will be Mr. Harry Bone of Columbia University and Union Seminary on campus life adjustments, and Dr. English Bagby, well-known expert in the psychology of personality.

These three leaders, with the group of twenty to twenty-five choice counselors selected from the more important institutions in the south, will provide a service quite unique in the quality of its personnel and the service to be rendered.

High-Grade Bible Study
Rare, indeed, will be the privilege of those who attend the conference this year in their opportunity to experience such interpretations of the Bible as will be provided under the leadership of Dr. Bruce Curry of New York, Dr. William J. Hutchins of Berea College, Mr. Harry Bone of the National Council of Y. M. C. A.'s, Dr. J. M. Culbreth of the Methodist Board of Education, and Dr. H. M. LeSourd of Duke University. This has been arranged in answer to the strongly expressed desire on the part of students for opportunity to gain an inspiring acquaintance with the Bible.

Interest and Technique Groups
Running through the conference will be a number of smaller interest groups delving into such questions as students themselves may choose for discussion in relation to the application of Christian principles to the problems on the campus and in the community. The latter half of the conference will be devoted in these same groups to the discussion of the kind of programs that can actually be carried out through the Christian association back in the colleges. Such leaders as Harry Bone, Dr. R. E. Barber, Dr. W. W. Alexander, Mr. Harry Comer, Dr. William J. Hutchins, and others of like caliber will be the resource men for these groups.

Recreation
This phase of the conference will be in charge of competent athletic directors, who will help organize the sports, tennis, basketball, swimming, rowing, track, hiking, etc. The afternoons will be completely devoted to these activities, or to such recreation as the delegates themselves may choose. Tournaments will be arranged, in which the delegations with sufficient numbers can participate.

Sings
One of the most pleasurable features of the conference comes each evening after supper, when at the "lobby sing" students share each other's college songs and join together in both popular songs and old favorites. It is in an informal expression of this nature that fellowship is enriched and a warmth of friendship develops between men from the many different campuses represented.

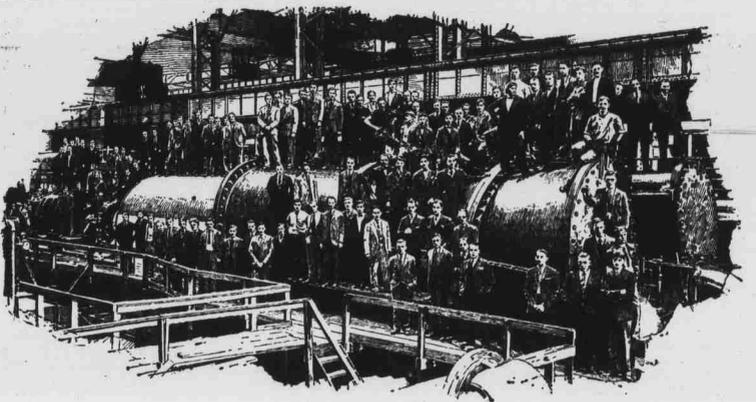

These are some of the values that will go to make the annual Student Conference at Blue Ridge a memorable event in the lives of those discriminating students who choose to invest two weeks of the next vacation period in one of the most inspiring and altogether satisfying experiences that come in a lifetime.

BLUE RIDGE DESIGNED FOR REST AND DIVERSION

Dedicated as a Service to Southern Students—a Shrine for College Youth

For twenty-two years the students of the south have each summer turned their faces toward the hills and journeyed thither for a ten-day period of refreshment and change from the grind of the college year.

Until 1911 the conferences were held in a number of places in or near the mountains of North Carolina and Tennessee. In 1912 the Blue Ridge Association opened its doors and was dedicated to a career of service to the South by the conferences of the college Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. Since that year students have looked upon this spot as a sort of shrine for the students of the South.

Eight or nine conferences are held on these grounds each summer, but the one which particularly interests State College is the Southern Student's Conference of the Y. M. C. A. to be held this year during the ten days, June 14-24.

This conference is expected to draw delegates from ten southern states, including on the south Virginia and Kentucky and on the west runs to the Mississippi River, but includes also Louisiana.

Students look upon it as a kind of great "Southern Intercollegiate meet" where delegations of all-round students go to participate in all of the events, religious, social, recreational, etc. To this conference come representatives from the student bodies and faculties of every type of college in the region, including state universities, state technical schools, medical, dental, law, theological and other professional schools, denominational schools, independent colleges and universities.

The students and professors who attend the conference are usually those who have manifested interest in the best things in college life. They are the men who on their own campus have been counted on to stand for high moral and intellectu-

STATE DEBATERS MEET FLORIDA PULLEN HALL TUESDAY NIGHT AT 8:00

The intercollegiate debating season opens for State College next Tuesday night, March 5, at 8 o'clock.

At this time the negative team meets an affirmative team from the University of Florida in a contest to be held in Pullen Hall on the State College campus.

The State speakers are W. R. Dixon of Rocky Mount and Lee Mercer of Norfolk, Va. Each of these men is a sophomore, Dixon majoring in architecture and Mercer in chemical engineering. This will be their first intercollegiate debate, but they have had some experience in high school and in the college literary societies. Mercer is a member of the Leazar Society, and Dixon is a member of Pullen.

It is expected that the University of Florida will send a much more experienced team on the platform, but the State speakers will be prepared to give them a good fight.

The proposition to be debated is: "Resolved, That a committee of expert jurists, three or five in number, should be substituted for the jury in every trial."

It is likely that the Florida debate will be the most important home contest of the forensic season, and State College students are urged to be present to support their team.

FRESH-SOPH DEBATE PLANS COMPLETED BY LITERARY SOCIETIES

At the meetings of the two literary societies held last Friday night the propositions to be discussed in the annual inter-society Sophomores and Freshman debates were selected. The Sophomore debate will be held some time in April, and the Freshman debate early in May. The exact dates will be announced later.

The Sophomores will use the proposition: "Resolved, that the practice of installment buying, as developed in the United States during the past ten years, is detrimental to the nation's best interests." Pullen has the affirmative and Leazar the negative.

The Freshmen will debate the subject: "Resolved, that the Philippines should be granted immediately their complete independence." Pullen speakers will talk in favor of this proposal and Leazar speakers against it.

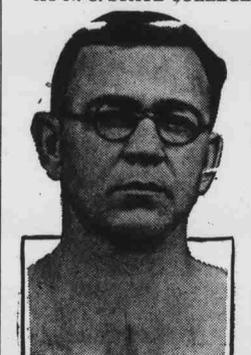

Special books have been placed on the literary society reserve shelf in the library for those who plan to enter these contests. The Sophomores will find a complete brief on their subject in the Debaters' Digest for January 15, 1929, and also much material in the Reference Shelf on Installment Buying, by H. M. Muller.

The Freshman subject is dealt with at length in the Debaters' Digest for February 1, 1929, in the Reference

DIRECTS HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL CONTESTS AT N. C. STATE COLLEGE

John F. Miller, athletic director at North Carolina State College at Raleigh, is busy with plans for the fourth annual invitational high school tournament on March 7, 8 and 9, in Frank Thompson Gymnasium at the college. Entries will close on February 27 with teams' records through February 24 to be considered, Director Miller has announced. Teams will be entered in three classes, according to enrollments. Each divisional winner will receive a trophy and individual players will get awards also.

Shelf, Vol 5, No. 3, by Eleanor Ball, in the University Debaters' Annual for 1921-2, in the book entitled Thirty Complete Debates, and in Debate Outlines on Public Questions, Debate No. XVIII.

The two underclass debates are usually hotly contested, and this year bids fair to be no exception to the rule. Each society has a large and active group of sophomores and freshmen.

Freedom Of Press, Speech, Is Subject Dr. Russell's Talk

Addressing the North Carolina State College chapter of Phi Kappa Phi, honor society, here last night on "The New Struggle for Liberty," Dr. Elbert Russell, dean of Duke University School of Religion, declared that free speech, a free press, and right of peaceful assembly are guaranteed by the Constitution, but if they can be exercised only at cost of losing one's job or eviction from one's home or loss of necessary advertising, the right becomes a mockery.

Freedom of religion, he added, is a fundamental of America's system, but many a preacher in a company town has learned, along with Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. secretaries in many places, that religious liberty under an industrial despotism is a mockery. Academic freedom is difficult to maintain, said Dr. Russell, when a college president can be terrorized by the threat of its clientele to stop donations or of the legislature to cut off appropriations from state institutions.

"Many a politician is kept politically regular by threats of corporations to take his job from him; many a business man is kept in political serfdom to the politicians lest they make his bank call his loans; many a worker dares not take part in a political campaign against his employer because he knows he will be fired if he does."

These threats to liberty have not received great public attention as yet, said Dr. Russell, partly because the situation is new and partly because the newly acquired power has not been regularly abused.

"Thomas Jefferson laid it down as a dictum that no man is wise or good enough to govern another without his consent," said Dr. Russell. "This holds when the power is economic and industrial as well as when it is political. And as jobs become scarcer and the industrial autocrats more conscious of their power, the situation will become less tolerable. The meaning of industrial and political unrest in this country is that the exploited classes are beginning a new struggle for liberty."

Dr. Russell was presented by Dean B. F. Brown of State College.

Boys and Girls Work At Blue Ridge During Summer Conference

At Blue Ridge each summer a certain number of girls and boys are employed to work in the dining hall, offices, and cottages. These girls and boys are a select group, representing the best to be found in the colleges of the South, and it is nothing unusual to find a girl or boy wearing a Phi Beta Kappa or Phi Kappa Phi key working in the dining hall or sweeping up the rooms.

The Southern Y. M. C. A. College students have first choice of positions for work at Blue Ridge during the summer, and after as many of them as desire accept work, then the remaining positions are allotted among the other southern colleges. N. C. State has had several men to attend the Blue Ridge Conference and work as P.W.B's.

The P.W.G.s. (poor working girls) and P.W.B.s. (poor working boys) are organized and have their regular initiation each year to take in new members. Those who go to Blue Ridge and who do not belong to the organization see that they are missing something worthwhile, even though circumstances prevent them from being members.

Each week some form of entertainment is planned for the group. A hike to Mount Mitchell or a night spent on High Top is a great sport for the group.

There are many different tasks performed by the P.W.G.s. and P.W.B.s. at Blue Ridge. Besides working in the dining hall, kitchen, and cottages, some of the boys work as electricians, some as lobby boys in the main building known as Robert E. Lee Hall, others as gatekeepers at the entrance to the grounds, others as life-guards at the lake, and some in the laundry. It is to be remembered that while all this is going on the P.W.G.s. and P.W.B.s. are going to school, which, of course, is their main reason for being at Blue Ridge.

her escort's flask merely touches the bottle with her lips. That may be true, but we never had such luck.

Drink Coca-Cola Delicious and Refreshing

PAUSE AND REFRESH YOURSELF

IT WON'T BE LONG NOW. AND THE PAUSE THAT'S COMING MAY NOT BE SO REFRESHING AS SOME OTHERS WE KNOW OF.

The moral is to avoid situations where it is impossible to pause and refresh yourself—because whenever you can't is when you most wish you could. Fortunately, in normal affairs there's always a soda fountain or refreshment stand around the corner from anywhere with plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola ready. And every day in the year 8 million people stop a minute, refresh themselves with this pure drink of natural flavors and are off again with the zest of a fresh start.
