SAM ESPOSITO

Head Baseball Coach

A former major leaguer, Sam Esposito was handed the North Carolina State baseball reins in 1967 following the retirement of veteran Vic Sorrell, and the Wolfpack has not experienced a losing season under his direction.

After an 11-11 break-even season in his first campaign, the Wolfpack has been menacingly on the prowl and twice posted 21 or more victories. The apex of his five-year State career came in 1968 when he steered the Wolfpack to the Atlantic Coast Conference championship, the NCAA District III title and a third-place finish in the collegiate World Series as the team finished with an overall record of 25-9, the best in State's history.

Esposito, who also serves as a basketball assistant, has seen his teams etch an imposing 92-52-1 record, an average of more than 18 wins per season, and against ACC competition, his clubs stand 50-33. Last season, State went 18-11-1 and was in contention for the conference title until the final week of the race, ending with a 9-5 league mark.

Esposito, for 10 years an American League infielder, mostly with the Chicago White Sox, has already been cited twice for his coaching ability: he was voted NCAA District Coach of the Year in 1968, when State was 13-4 in the league and 25-9 overall, and he was co-winner of the 1968 Will Wynne Award, presented annually to the man adjudged to have contributed the most to baseball in North Carolina. Esposito shared that award, made by the Raleigh Hot Stove League, with Jimmy Hunter of the Oakland Athletics.

Esposito, who also coached two State freshman basketball teams to winning records, actually played six different positions as a major leaguer. He was primarily a shortstop and third baseman during his nine years with the White Sox and his one year with the Kansas City Athletics. His most active season was in 1958, when he played in 98 games for the White Sox, batting .247, and he played for the White Sox in the 1959 World Series against the Los Angeles Dodgers.

A 38-year-old Chicago native, Esposito signed with the White Sox in June, 1952, after his sophomore year at Indiana University, where he was attending school on a basketball grant-in-aid. Sam continued his education during the off-season and earned his bachelor's degree in physical education, with a minor in social studies, at Indiana in 1964. He was awarded his master's degree while coaching and teaching in the East Chicago Public School system. He served as assistant basketball coach at Washington High for eight years. While at Indiana, Sam had one year of varsity competition in baseball and basketball. His play in both sports was so impressive that he was voted the schools "Athlete of the Year" award.

OUTLOOK FOR 1972

Pitcher Mike Caldwell was "Player of the Year" in the Atlantic Coast Conference last season, and, along with teammate Chris Cammack, was a first-team all-conference selection. Both, however, were seniors at the time and have since departed the Wolfpack fold.

Ordinarily, the loss of two such outstanding performers would leave N. C. State coach Sam Esposito singing the blues—and he does grow a bit melancholy whenever their names are mentioned. But a bumper crop of newcomers, which includes junior college transfers Rick Richardson and Wayne Currin, and the return of 10 lettermen has the fiercely-competitive Esposito looking toward the new season with relish.

"Overall, we'll have better team speed," he said in discussing the prospects for '72, "and our hitting should be improved. So should our defense after it gets a few games under its belt. The only real question mark will be pitching."

Junior Bob Anderson and senior Reid Carter are counted on to anchor the corps of moundsmen whose rank also number freshmen standouts Tim Stoddard and Mike Dempsey. Anderson, a rangy righthander, started seven games last year and notched a 3-3 record while working almost 50 innings. His ERA was a highly respectable 1.81.

The crafty Carter was employed mostly in relief last year, carving out a 3-0 mark, but Esposito sees him as a possible regular this spring.

In Stoddard and Dempsey, the Pack has a pair of king-sized performers. At 6-7 and 6-6 respectively, both should offer a certain amount of intimidation to opposing batsmen with their size and back it up with blazing speed. Stoddard, of East Chicago, Ill., was 7-2 in his final prep season, fanning 114 in 63 innings en route to an imposing 0.91 ERA. Dempsey, a highly recruited prospect, was equally impressive in leading Greensboro Grimsley to post-season laurels.

Also counted on as a potential starter is sophomore Tommy Land of Charlotte who saw spot action last year. Juniors Mike Evans and Tommy Rempson will head the bullpen crew along with soph Brad Biggers, and freshman Lewis Hardy of Rocky Mount.

The catching duties will be in the capable hands of Bill Glad, a junior, who has handled the position the last two seasons. In the infield, hustling Jerry Mills returns at second base while Mike Royal and Randy McMasters will continue their battle at shortstop.

Richardson, who attained all-America status at Louisburg Junior College, will operate at first base and should supply the plate punch the Wolfpack has lacked in recent years. The 6-5, 215-pounder was a national JC leader with a .471 hitting mark and was impressive last summer in the Carolina Collegiate League with 12 home runs and a .370 average.

Filling the big shoes vacated at third base by Cammack's departure will probably be Ron Evans, a freshman from Greensboro. He played shortstop at Smith High, hitting .403 and being named the team's Most Valuable Player.

In the outfield, regulars Mike Baxter and Pat Korsnick return and will be joined by talented newcomers Wayne Currin and Don Zagorski. Baxter hit .279 last year and led the team in base thefts with 13 of 14 attempts.

"Overall," sums up Esposito, "we may have the best talent we've had in my six years here. If we'll be patient early in the year, we could be a real good ball club by mid-season."

INFELDERS

* Indicates Letters Won

Ron Evans Fr. bats left 3B Greensboro

Ron is expected to move in and claim third base which was vacated by the graduation of all-America Chris Cammack . . . recognized as all-state performer at Ben L. Smith High last season and was voted team's Most Valuable Player . . . batted at a sizzling .403 pace . . . played shortstop in high school but has the ability and initiative to make the switch to third . . . "Although Ron is only a freshman, we feel he can take over third base and handle it more than adequately," says coach Esposito . . . his prep team won state 4-A title two years running, 1968 and 1969 . . . has exceptionally quick wrists which accounts for his authority at the plate . . . born Aug. 16, 1953 . . . economics major.

**Randy McMasters Sr. bats right SS Greensboro

Randy, a part-time starter for the Wolfpack the last two years, can play any position in the infield . . . Coach Esposito calls him "a fine student of the game, one who will contribute a lot to the ball club whether he's playing or not" . . . lack of hitting ability is his biggest shortcoming . . . batted .238 as regular second-baseman in 1970 but slipped to .160 last season . . . has an excellent arm and is adept in double-play situations . . . one of only three seniors on the squad . . . was standout member of baseball and basketball teams at Grimsley High . . . played on Greensboro American Legion state championship team in 1968 . . . born Feb. 23, 1950 . . . mechanical engineering major.

Rick Richardson Jr. bats right 1B Raleigh

Rick, a transfer from Louisburg Junior College, was JC and Topps all-America selection last year . . . led team to national JC finals . . . his .470 batting average was one of best in the nation and topped all batters in District 10 . . . "He's the first player I've had at State who I consider a genuine long-ball hitter," says coach

Esposito. "I expect a lot of home runs and RBI's from him" . . . Rick played with Louisburg in the Carolina Collegiate League last summer and was the premier hitter with a .370 mark that included 12 homers . . . at Churchland High near Portsmouth, Va., he excelled in both baseball and basketball, being named all-conference in both sports . . . was a standout American Legion player for three seasons . . . a native of Portsmouth, he married a Raleigh girl recently and has decided to make his home here . . . born Jan. 1, 1951 . . . majoring in economics.

*Mike Royal So. switch hits SS Fayetteville

Mike appeared in 22 games last season in sharing shortstop position with Randy McMasters . . . handled himself smartly afield, but lacked punch at the plate, batting only .130 . . . must improve in this department considerably if he is to nail down job as a regular . . . "Mike didn't do badly as a freshman," says coach Esposito, "but with a year's experience behind him, we'll expect a lot more of him this season" . . . has quick reflexes and a strong arm . . . won Golden Glove fielding award at Terry Sanford where he was starter for three years . . . also was regular guard on basketball team there . . . born June 3, 1952 . . . enrolled in College of Forestry.

Wayne, a transfer from Louisburg Junior College, is expected to crash the starting lineup because of his left-handed hitting power and his fine all-round play . . . Coach Esposito labels him a "steady performer with an accurate throwing arm" . . . was on the same team with Rick Richardson at Louisburg that made it to the junior college national finals last year . . . because of his speed, he'll most likely be used in centerfield . . . his .300-plus batting average at Louisburg will be a welcomed addition to the Wolfpack lineup—which had only one .300 hitter last season . . . born Feb. 8, 1951 . . . sociology major.

*Pat Korsnick Jr. bats right Wheeling, W. Va.

Pat, although hitting only .271, was the team leader in RBI production last season with 21 . . . his most satisfying hit was a bases-loaded homer that keyed an 11-7 victory over North Carolina . . . "Pat had some outstanding games last year but needs to get more consistent," says coach Esposito. "He'll have to cut down on his strikeouts to improve his batting average" . . . a three-sport ace at Central Catholic High, he garnered all-America laurels in football and all-conference recognition in baseball . . . also was captain of the basketball team . . . originally went to Purdue but transferred to State after his freshman year . . . was the starting quarterback for the Wolfpack gridgers in four games this past season . . . rated second only to Chris Cammack as a slugger in 1971, collecting five doubles, two triples and three HRs . . . born June 12, 1950 . . . in School of Forestry.

Don Zagorski Fr. bats right Havelock

Don is another of several newcomers who has the ability and aggressiveness to earn a starting berth immediately . . . "He has a good arm, runs adequately and hits with power," says coach Esposito. "His only drawback is a lack of experience, but he'll develop confidence as the season progresses" . . . a rangy youngster, Don was a football guard at Havelock High and played both first base and the outfield in baseball . . . was an all-Northeastern 3-A Conference selection three consecutive years and made the all-state team his senior season . . . belted three consecutive home runs in a game against West Carteret and had 10 RBI's for his efforts . . . born Sept. 19, 1953 . . . industrial arts major.

CATCHERS

**Bill Glad Jr. bats right Joliet, Ill.

Bill is regarded as the backbone of the Pack for his steady play behind the plate . . . "As long as he can drag a foot, he'll be catching," says assistant coach Jim Edwards . . . a starter since he was a freshman, Bill pulled his batting average up to .205 last season and should continue the improvement this year . . . "Bill's an outstanding defensive player," says coach Esposito, "one of the best in the conference. He does a fine job of handling pitchers" . . . despite his weak batting average, Bill occasionally hits the long ball, accounting for three doubles, a triple and two homers . . . has enough knowledge of the game to be termed a "playing coach" . . . few opposing players will attempt to steal on him because he's proven he has an outstanding arm . . . made all-conference two years at Joliet West High and also played football there . . . born Aug. 7, 1951 . . . in School of Forestry.

PITCHERS

**Bob Anderson Jr. righthander Joliet, Ill.

Bob enters his third season with the Wolfpack with an overall 6-5 record . . . went 3-3 last year after a shaky start . . . "With the experience he's gained, we look for Bob to have an outstanding year," says coach Esposito . . . was No. 3 man in rotation last season and is again counted on as a starter . . . enjoyed his finest moment in Wolfpack uniform late last season when he blanked Wake Forest on a three-hitter for an 8-0 win . . . as senior at Joliet West, he pitched 74 consecutive innings without yielding an earned run . . . fashioned a 10-1 record that year . . . brother Tom played four years at the University of Wisconsin . . . Bob's main forte is a fastball, but he also has a good changeup . . . had best ERA among starters last year at 1.81 . . . allowed 18 runs in seven starts, but only 10 were earned . . . born Jan. 1, 1971 . . . majoring in history.

Mike Dempsey Fr. righthander Greensboro

Mike, on the basis of a fine prep career, is counted on to carry a major share of the pitching load . . . big, strong and more experienced than most freshmen . . . notched 11-5 record at Grimsley High and helped pitch Whirlies to state 4-A crown with 4-3 worksheet . . . all three losses resulted despite his hurling one-hit ball in each . . . threw no-hitter against Raleigh Broughton in state semi-finals . . . depends heavily on fastball, but also has good curve . . . drafted in 4th round of free agent draft last summer by Atlanta Braves, but decided on college career . . . "Mike has all the tools to be an outstanding pitcher," say coach Esposito . . . as 14-year-old, he pitched Greensboro to Pony League world title with five-hitter against Covina, Cal. . . fashioned 6-1 record last summer with American Legion team . . . starred also in football and basketball at Grimsley . . . No. 6 man on Wolflet basketball team . . . born Sept. 24, 1953 . . . liberal arts major.

Mike Evans Jr. lefthander Woodbridge, Va.

Mike, after a disappointing season last year, is expected to rebound this spring into one of the Wolfpack's top moundsmen . . . wound up with an 0-2 record last year although he was used only sparingly . . . "We look for Mike to come around and become a valuable member of the staff," says coach Esposito . . . "If we're to have a good year, he'll have to regain his old form," adds the Pack coach . . . Mike showed such signs in fall practice . . . the rangy southpaw had an outstanding prep career, once hurling a pair of no-hitters in a five-day span . . . earned all-conference honors in both baseball and football (QB) at Woodbridge . . . born Sept. 22, 1951 . . . sociology major.

Tim Stoddard Fr. righthander East Chicago, Ill.

Tim, like Mike Dempsey, is tabbed to be a starter although only a freshman . . . enjoyed fantastic career as prepster in football, basketball and baseball, and was voted Chicago area's Athlete of Year by Hammond (Ind.) Times . . . filled dual role as pitcher-outfielder and batted .336 over four-year career . . . overall pitching record was 22-12, going 7-2 his senior season . . . four of his seven wins were shutouts . . . struck out 114 in 63 innings of work, compiling a fantastic 0.91 ERA . . . whiffed 19 batters in one game en route to regional championship . . . "Tim is an outstanding athlete," says coach Esposito, "one who is going to give us a tremendous lift" . . . was a starter and top scorer for State's freshman basketball team . . . born January 24, 1953 . . . math major.

Tommy Land So. righthander Charlotte

Tommy toiled seven and two-thirds innings as freshman last year, but did not figure in a decision . . . has size, poise and arm to be an outstanding pitcher . . . impressed coach Esposito in fall practice . . . "Tommy may become a surprise starter," noted the Wolfpack coach . . . was three-sport star at Myers Park, excelling in football (QB) as all-state selection . . . all-conference in baseball, all-county in basketball . . . overall pitching record in preps was 14-3 . . . born March 10, 1951 . . . majoring in textiles.

Athletics Administration

DR. RALPH E. FADUM

Faculty Chairman of Athletics

North Carolina State University's representative at the executive level in the Atlantic Coast Conference is Dr. Ralph E. Fadum, who has been Dean of the School of Engineering since 1962. This is Dr. Fadum's ninth season as Faculty Chairman of Athletics at N. C. State University.

The scholarly engineer, who is currently serving his second term as president of the ACC, is widely recognized as one of the nation's top ranking authorities in the field of soil mechanics and foundations. A graduate of the University of Illinois and Harvard University, he has a distinguished career in teaching and research. He taught civil engineering and headed the University's Department of Civil Engineering for 13 years. He came to State in 1949, following teaching assignments at Harvard (1935-1943) and Purdue (1943-49). Dr. Fadum's services as a consultant are sought by government and private concerns.

He and his wife, Nancy Fields Fadum, have one daughter.

WILLIS R. CASEY

Director of Athletics

The Director of Athletics at North Carolina State University is Willis R. Casey, who has served the University Athletics Department in several capacities for 26 years.

Casey was head swimming coach at N. C. State for 22 seasons, during which his teams posted a phenomenal dual-meet winning percentage of .866 and won outright or shared 11 Atlantic Coast Conference and Southern Conference swimming championships. State swimmers coached by Casey, who became Director of Athletics in July, 1969, won 123 individual ACC titles. In addition, he coached the league's first Olympic double gold medal winner, Steve Rerych.

Casey, a native of Goldsboro, joined the State staff in 1946 after graduating from the University of North Carolina. He was appointed assistant athletics director in 1949, and in 1967, he also became business manager of athletics.

His 22 Wolfpack swimming teams never had a losing season, seven times posting undefeated records in dual-meet competition. His teams have won four NCAA and nine national individual AAU titles, as well as several AAU national team titles. He coached the American swimming team which represented the United States in Japan in 1959, and he took three Olympic champions to Paris, France, for swimming in 1969.

Casey has managed ACC and Dixie Classic Basketball Tournaments, and three NCAA Eastern Regional Basketball Championships, and championships in fencing and swimming have been organized under his direction.

The often-honored administrator is married to the former Ethel Laughlin of Tarboro, and they are the parents of two sons, Robert, a State alumnus, and Walker.

North Carolina State University

North Carolina State University is located in the capital city of Raleigh, but its educational programs reach from the Atlantic Ocean to the Appalachian Mountains and beyond.

Dr. Caldwell

Founded as one of the nation's land-grant colleges in 1887, the institution opened with six professors, 45 students, one building, two mules and a horse.

Today NCSU is a center of scientific, technological and liberal education.

Enrollment has soared to more than 12,600 young men and women including some 2,200 graduate students. Faculty and staff number more than 3,000. The main campus encompasses some 100 buildings on 2,000 acres.

Teaching, research and extension at NCSU cover studies as down to earth as soil science and as far out as aerospace engineering. The instructional program is offered through 60 academic departments under eight schools: Agricultural and Life Sciences, Design, Education, Engineering, Forestry, Liberal Arts, Physical Sciences and Applied Mathematics and Textiles.

NCSU conducts research projects ranging from genetics to nuclear physics and from nematodes to lasers. The value of research this year was listed at $18.5 million.

The research and academic know-how at NCSU work as catalytic agents to the entire economy and life of North Carolina—through the Agricultural Extension Service (which is headquartered at the campus) through the Industrial Extension Service and through the Division of Continuing Education (which conducts short courses and other programs across the State).

Dr. John T. Caldwell, a past president of the American Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges, is chancellor of N. C. State. The University is an integral part of the Consolidated University of North Carolina.

Rising enrollments and increasing demands for the services of the University have led to a continuing series of groundbreakings for new buildings. Work is progressing on a 10-story chemistry building, a $4.5 million education building, a major expansion to the School of Forestry and two additional high-rise dormitories.

From modest beginnings in the 19th Century, North Carolina State University is serving the rising hopes of the 20th Century and looking toward the 21st.

JIM EDWARDS

Assistant Baseball Coach

J. B. (Jim) Edwards, who reached Triple-A ranks as a minor league shortstop, is in his 18th season as baseball coach at N. C. State University.

An N. C. State graduate, Jim earned an industrial arts degree in 1948. In 1951, he decided to leave his baseball career and join the staff at N. C. State, where he is now an associate professor of physical education. World War II interrupted a college career that saw him voted all-State in baseball and winner of the 175-pound Southern Conference wrestling title.

A Lincolnton native who grew up at Wilmington, Jim spent four seasons as a Carolina League shortstop. He played with Buffalo (AAA) in 1950 while a member of the Philadelphia Athletics organization.

Jim holds a Master's degree in physical education, and is married to the former Odessa Williams of Robbins. They have a 13-year-old daughter, Gail.
