FOREWORD

This basketball information brochure has been compiled primarily for the use of press and radio representatives and others who are seeking accurate information concerning the 1947-48 North Carolina State College basketball team. We have tried, as nearly as possible, to cover the prospects for the season and to give pertinent statistics, schedules and sketches of coaches and players that will prove of value.

If there is need for further information, pictures, mats, or special features that may aid in publicizing the team, we shall be more than glad to try to supply them. Any suggestions on how service may be improved to radio stations and newspapers will be gladly accepted.

You will find in the brochure as many statistics as we were able to compile. Records of previous State basketball teams were not available and they have not been included.

Elsewhere in this brochure you will find further information concerning tickets for working press and radio men. Inquiries concerning these tickets should be sent in promptly before each home game, since the limited seating capacity of the Frank Thompson gym will enable us to take care of just so many of these requests. There will not be any complimentary tickets available this season, but with the completion of the Coliseum, now under construction, we will be able to extend these privileges once again.

We request, too, that if members of the working press desire direct wire communications with their newspapers for State's home games that an advance notice be given to the office of the Western Union Company in Raleigh. In the past some members of the press have failed to do this and such wire communications have not been available for this reason.

State College extends a welcome to members of the press and radio and we desire to cooperate in every way possible. Please, however, take into consideration our problems and we will do all in our power to aid you in every way we can.

THE PROSPECTUS

Actually on paper the prospects of the 1947-48 North Carolina State College team appears better than ever, but in Coach Everett Case's own words "the road of a champion is always a tough one."

When the Wolfpack outfit ran roughshod over 26 out of 31 opponents last season and won the Southern Conference title, everyone was saying that the State team would be unbeatable in future years "if Case can keep his freshmen together until they're seniors."

Already one dependable high scorer from the great frosh club of 1946-47 has taken his prowess elsewhere. He's Harold "Pete" Negley, who transferred to American University. Negley was a big cog in the State attack, which is proven by the fact that he scored 335 points and averaged 10.8 points per game.

Negley's departure means a big hole at center in the State offense. But the situation is not unremedial. At least three men appear to be capable of filling in here, including Freshmen Paul Horvath and Jimmy Lyons. Also there's Warren Cartier, a dependable regular from last season, who was used on many occasions to fill in for Negley when he wasn't starring at his regular forward berth.

The rest of the team is pretty well set. High scoring aces Forward Dick Dickey and Guard Ed Bartels are certain to be top notchers again this year. At the guards Leo Katkaveck, Norman Sloan, are lettermen with a lot of experience in the Case system. Besides those already mentioned as center candidates, Case can expect a lot of help from Bob Hahn, a 6 foot 10 inch giant from Ann Arbor, Mich., who led the 'Pack to victory over St. John's in the Madison Square Garden Invitational last season.

The reserve strength is adequate. Jack McComas and Charlie Stine, Freshmen Vic Bubas and Chester Gurski have been hot in pre-season workouts and McComas, perhaps more than any other man, has shown marked ability. Guard reserves include Freshman Sam Ranzino, a hot shot from all angles, and at center Case can also call upon letterman Harold Snow, a 6 foot 3 inch pivotman.

The nine returning lettermen are certain to bear the brunt of the Wolfpack attack, but Freshmen Ranzino, Horvath, Lyons, Bubas and Gurski will be playing a lot of ball for State. They need only to learn the Case style of play to become big cogs in the machine.

THE COACHING STAFF

HEAD COACH EVERETT N. CASE

Head Coach Everett N. Case, whose record of high school, college, and service quintets has made him a national sports figure, assumed his duties here at N. C. State College July 1, 1946.

Case was detached from the Navy on June 1, at which time he concluded a brilliant career as athletic director of the Ottumwa, Iowa, Naval Air Station, where he led the Iowa Seahawks to 27 victories in 29 starts during the past season.

The State College coach was graduated from the University of Wisconsin with the class of 1923 as a major in physical education and education, and later earned his masters degree at the University of Southern California.

He began his coaching career at the age of 18 years, starting at Connersville, Ind., High School. There but a year, he shifted to Columbus High in Indiana and in the next two seasons he took his teams to the Hoosierland state tourney.

Case moved to Frankfort, Ind., High in 1922 to begin a 20-year coaching reign that is unequalled in Indiana's hotbed of basketball. His Frankfort teams played in every state tournament from 1922 to 1931, winning the championships in 1925 and 1929.

In 1931 Case went to Anderson, Ind., High, remaining there two years, then moving to the University to assist Sam Barry with the Trojan junior varsity. On the side, while there, he coached the Firestone Californians, who won the all-Pacific A.A.U. title in 1933.

Case then returned to Frankfort, Ind., High, and won the State championship in 1936 and 1939.

In the 19 years Case coached at Frankfort his teams were in the state tournament 17 times. In winning state titles in 1925, 1929, and 1939, he has the distinction of coaching the only teams ever to win the Indiana championship four times.

High School teams coached by Case won 726 out of 801 games played.

Case also coached the Hammond, Ind., Cieaser's in the National Pro league in 1941.

He was commissioned in the Navy in 1942, took his indoctrination at the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis and was sent to the cadet selection board in Chicago. He later served for a time at St. Mary's Preflight on the West Coast and at the Naval Air Station at Alameda.

Assigned to DePauw University at Greencastle, Ind., he coached the Navy team to 29 wins in 32 games, his outfit taking the Indiana State Service championship and, among others, beating Purdue in the 1943-44 season.

Following his tour of duty at DePauw, Case was made athletic director at Gross Ile, Mich., and he was assigned to the Ottumwa Naval Air Station in January of 1945. Named athletic director of the station, he also assumed the basketball coaching duties. His Iowa Seahawks won 27 of 29 games, beating, among others, the Wright Field Kittyhawks of Dayton, Ohio, generally rated one of the toughest service teams in the country, and the St. Mary's Preflight team of the West Coast.

During his 20-year career as an Indiana high school coach, he developed such stars as Jay McCreary, Indiana University ace; Ralph Vaughn, Southern California star, and Bob Kessler of Purdue, all of whom gained All-American intercollegiate fame.

Among his other accomplishments, he organized the Indiana state coaching school in 1926 and annually has conducted it since that time.

Coach Case succeeded LeRoy Jay, who handled the wartime basketball coaching chores for State College.

One of the most sought after teachers of the cage game, Coach Case has conducted basketball clinics at numerous spots throughout the nation. During the past summer he held clinics at Atlanta, Ga., Indianapolis, Ind., and at William and Mary College, Williamsburg, Pa.

Many honors have been conferred upon Coach Case during his career as a basketball coach. Most recent of these honors was his selection as a member of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Committee. He is also a member of the Quaker Oats National Basketball Board, which is headed by Adolph Rupp of the University of Kentucky and includes such other notable basketball coaches as Pops Harrison, Iowa; Vadal Peterson, Utah; Howard Cann, New York University; Nibs Price, California, and Ray Meyer, DePaul.

Although a native of Anderson, Indiana, Coach Case has adopted North Carolina and Raleigh as his home. He recently moved his household furniture to a six-room apartment in Raleigh. A bachelor, Case has evidenced a lot of interest in the young people of Raleigh and North Carolina. He is a familiar sight on the State College campus and is always willing to talk to anyone, whether about basketball or any other subject.

He takes a personal interest in the members of his squad and is their constant adviser in both basketball and in their studies. Case taught English while coaching at Frankfort, Ind., and never hesitates to help out one of his players who might be having trouble with his college English.

ASSISTANT COACH CARL (BUTTER) ANDERSON

Carl H. (Butter) Anderson, 260-pound former Southern California football and basketball star, is the assistant football and basketball coach here at N. C. State College. He also reported on July 1.

Anderson has just completed his duties as assistant to Coach Beattie Feather's 1947 version of the Wolfpack. He was coach of the "B" squad also.

Anderson entered the Navy's athletic program as physical instructor and athletic director in 1942, being released to inactive duty in the rank of Lieutenant-Commander in February of this year. His Navy tour of duty included coaching posts at Bunker Hill Naval Air Station, and the Naval Air Technical Training School. He joined Combat Aircraft Service Unit 11 in August, 1944, and stuck with that outfit through the invasion of Okinawa where he later served as naval athletic director under the watchful eyes of thousands of Japs trapped on the northern end of the bloody island.

After starring in football, basketball and track at Anderson, Ind., high school, the six-foot-two-inch athlete burned up mid-western semi-pro football and basketball circles as a member of the Delco-Remy Corporation teams from 1931 until 1934 when he entered the University of Southern California. Before graduating from Southern California in 1938 with a bachelor's degree in education, Anderson won two letters as a Trojan footballer and climaxed a brilliant, three-year basketball career in being selected team captain as a senior.

Coach Case, who knew Anderson "when," says that the big fellow is a "great spirit-builder and should add the spark needed here at State to build a really great basketball squad."

Seating Arrangements

Under a new play, fathered by Coach Everett Case, arrangements have been made to allow a limited number of fans to witness State's home basketball games. The plan calls for splitting State's 5,300 student body into two groups, allowing 2,650 students to witness each game. The seating capacity of the Frank Thompson gym has been increased to 4,000 persons, thus allowing space for 1,150 other persons.

The breakdown of these 1,150 persons will include dates of students, wives, faculty members and a limited number of members of the State Wolfpack Clubs, supporters of the college athletic program. If the entire number of tickets for outsiders have not been allotted by noon the day of each home game the tickets will then be placed on public sale.

It is doubtful that many tickets will be available to the public, but this is the only feasible plan that could be worked out to give persons other than the student body a chance to see some of the home games.

Arrangements have been made to give space to members of the WORKING PRESS. However, this space is very limited and it will be necessary for press representatives to make their reservations for WORKING accommodations early. It will be impossible to issue complimentary tickets to the press this year.

The breakdown of home games by groups:

GROUP ONE

Thursday, December 4 Catawba College
Monday, December 8 Chatham Mills
Monday, January 5 George Washington
Tuesday, January 13 Asheboro Eagles
Tuesday, February 3 North Carolina
Tuesday, February 17 Davidson College

GROUP TWO

Wednesday, December 10 Hanes Hosiery
Saturday, January 17 Duke University
Friday, January 23 High Point College
Wednesday, January 28 Furman University
Saturday, February 7 Georgetown University
Saturday, February 28 Wake Forest College

Call 'Em Wolfpack

In the past a great deal of confusion has come about because the North Carolina State team has been known as both the Wolfpack and Red Terrors. To avoid further confusion, especially when the team plays engagements outside of the state, it has been decided by members of the athletic council at State to dub the cagers of Coach Everett Case with only one nickname and that name will be Wolfpack. This conforms with the nickname used by all other athletic teams at State College. Thus the only official name of the team becomes Wolfpack. Members of the press and radio are requested to use this name. Other such titles as "Hoosier Hot-Shots," "Red Terrors" and "Casemen" are not authentic nicknames.

The Coliseum

State College is now in the process of constructing a 14,000 capacity Armory and Coliseum, which will be used for basketball games during the 1948-49 season. The building, measuring more than 300 feet in length and being more than 210 feet wide, will house military personnel of the R.O.T.C. program, athletic offices, and provide several recreation rooms, dressing room, equipment room and all other modern facilities.

To be included in the new building is also an ice-skating rink, one of the first of its kind to be constructed in the South.

The building is also expected to be the name home of the Southern Conference Basketball Tournament, which is played during the first week in March of each year. The seating capacity will make the new Coliseum the largest building of its type in the South and rival many of those north of the Mason-Dixon line.
