Player of the Week

MELVIN R. THOMPSON . . . 6-3 . . . 195 lbs. . . . Junior . . . Richmond, Indiana. A brilliant star who was second high scorer last season, his first on the Wolfpack varsity, Thompson hit for 396 points to average 13.2 per game. There is probably no better competitor on any squad in the nation, for Thompson is a scrapper from the opening whistle. Mel has two fine shots, an overhead hook and a one-handed push, both of which are deadly accurate. He starred on so many occasions last year that there isn't space to list the games, but he was the clutch man in the Southern Conference championship game against Duke, scoring 16 points. Mel is a ball-player's ball-player. His teammates and opponents alike praise his ability. Mel can handle a bigger center with ease and usually gets the best of the bargain. Few men have his endurance on the floor and it's not unusual for him to play 40 minutes without relief. Thompson is one of the really great players on the current Wolfpack squad, but he gets the job done with such a limited display that he's usually unsung when the plaudits are handed out with the writers. Enrolled in Rural and Industrial Recreation and member of the Infantry R.O.T.C. unit. Plans coaching career after graduation. Son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Thompson, 1320 Ratliff St., Richmond, Ind. Twenty years old.
