Next Attraction

Carnegie Tech is the team that is on everybody's tongue.

A week from the coming Thursday that gallant team, that only last week upset by the decisive score of 20-10 the unbeatable Pittsburgh Panthers, will come to Raleigh to do battle with our State College Wolfpack.

This truly will be a Thanksgiving Day football feast—Carnegie Tech vs. State.

And here's a tip, too.

You'd Better Be Getting Your Tickets Ordered. Send the admission price of $2.50 per seat to John Von Glahn at State College. Include 10 cents for insured mail. The tickets will be coming pronto.

In case you don't recall, the Carnegies have been beaten only by Notre Dame, and then on a disputed decision.

New York writers are proposing that that game be replayed and the winner represent the east in the Rose Bowl.

Ed (Ty) Coon, the Connecticut Yankee from N. C. State, and Little Artie Rooney continue in the race for all-America honors. Their work against Manhattan in New York last week strengthened their cause considerably.

Wayland Stuart, a senior who never played in a college football game until last week, had a nice spot to make his debut—the biggest stadium (Yankee Stadium) in the biggest city (New York) in the world. He came through with flying colors, too, especially for a 160-pounder.

CAPTAIN

James Burnette Hines (above), of Winston-Salem, N. C., a senior guard, is the 1938 State College football captain. Although Bunny Hines isn't a starting player, his teammates elected him because "he is the best fitted man for the job," they said.

State students really are sold on Williams (Doc) Newton, head Wolfpack coach. Despite the fact that the Pack lost a couple of games, The Technician (student newspaper) editorialized: "Since Newton came to this campus, school spirit, athletic spirit and general public interest has increased one hundred per cent." The Wataugan, humorous student magazine, follows suit by dedicating its new issue to the personable mentor.

Portraying scorn mixed with the utmost contempt, no actress (not Bernhardt herself) could reach the heights attained by a woman returning from a summer vacation when she views the house which, during her absence, has been kept by her husband.

Marie: "Are they in love?"

Mazie: "They must be. She listens to him describe a ball game and he listens to her telling how her cousin's new dress was made."

A junior reporter, frequently reprimanded for relating too many details and warned to be brief, sent in the following:

"Last night, Sir Dwight Hopeless, a guest at Lady Panmore's ball, complained of feeling ill, took a drink, his hat, his coat, his departure, no notice of his friends, a taxi, a pistol from his pocket, and finally his life. Nice chap. Regrets."

Miss: "What is the best way to preserve peaches?"

Mr.: "See a druggist; he can provide both the information and the materials."

Miss Catnip: "What do you think of matrimony?"
Mr. Dogbone: "Sorry, but I don't choose to answer; you see I've been married."

A candidate for the police force was being verbally examined.

"If you were by yourself in a police car and were pursued by a desperate gang of criminals in another car doing forty miles an hour along a lonely road, what would you do?"

The candidate looked puzzled for a moment. Then he replied: "Fifty."
