DON TRAYLOR (fullback) is the smallest fullback on the squad and one of the fastest. A wing back in 1938 he was shifted to the blocking (full) back's post last spring. Married in the summer, he was late in returning to school. Don captained the Wolfpack boxing team last year and, quite naturally, is handy with his dukes.

* DENOTES LETTERMEN. X DENOTES CO-CAPTAINS

THUMBNAIL SKETCHES OF N. C. STATE'S PLAYERS

CO-CAPTAIN BILL RETTER (Center) came to State a fullback and was converted into a center by Coach Newton. He has played tackle and end at various crucial times in Wolfpack games. A never-say-die competitor has been an inspiration to his teammates for two years.

CO-CAPTAIN ANDY PAVLOVSEY (Halfback) paced the Wolfpack in scoring in 1938 and was named on University of Detroit's all-opponent team. Like his partner in the captaincy, Handy Andy doesn't know what it is to be licked until the final whistle is blown. He made the Pack varsity as a sophomore, dropped out of school as a junior, but came back last year to clinch a berth again.

TY COON (Tackle) already is recognized as the No. 1 tackle of Dixie and is in line for all-America honors. Last year he sparked the Pack defense and made Grantland Rice's (Collier's) All-America squad, as well as gaining third team honors on innumerable selections. He combines vicious charging with deadly tackling and exceptional speed for a 200-pounder. His play won him all-opponent honors from Carnegie Tech, Duke, Alabama, Detroit, Manhattan and other 1938 opponents.

LITTLE ARTIE ROONEY (Quarterback) is a triple-threat football machine who made all-Big Five teams and placed high in Southern conference pickings. A powerful, speedy, crafty performer Little Artie comes from the football playing family of Pittsburgh, who sparked Pittsburgh and Duquesne teams of yesteryear. His first cousin, Art Rooney, in whose home Little Artie was reared, is owner of the Pittsburgh professional Pirates of the National Football League.

MICKEY SULLIVAN (End) has been a starter at State for two years and, having recovered from a worrisome shoulder injury that handicapped his play last year, is set to wind up his career in a blaze of glory.

FRED GARDNER (End) has been on the mend since last winter, when he underwent an operation for a shoulder injury that kept him on the shelf most of last year. A fullback when he came to State, Fred was shifted to end and mastered flank play as a junior.

JOHN SAVINI (Guard) is the only holdover from State's six-man guard corps of a year ago. Handsome John has won two Pack letters as an understudy to guards of other years and with that experience is recognized as an expert whipping guard of 195 pounds.

RALPH BURT (Tackle) shared right tackle with the graduated George Fry last year and is expected to be an able running mate for Ty Coon in this, his junior year. Burt generally is regarded as having the makings of one of the best all-around tackles in State history.

JULIAN WHITE (Tackle) is another product of the B squad. Julian doubles on the cornet in bands and orchestras, as well as playing a good brand of football. He swaps consistent play for color, but sufficient fire to turn on the heat.

WOODY JONES (Tackle) a natural-born tackle was handicapped a year ago by having to catch up with his growth. But, with pounds being added monthly, he probably will see much service before the season is finished.

DICK EAST (Quarterback) never has played a second of varsity football at State. Off-season injuries have hampered his conditioning, but he reported in the pink this fall and immediately put in a bid for the position Little Artie Rooney's understudy. Magic stars on the cinder path's sprint lanes.

REUBEN MORGAN (Fullback) is a transfer student from University of South Carolina. He seasoned on the reserves while establishing his year's residence and already has shown promise of being of considerable help to the Wolfpack's backfield staff.

DICK WATTS (Quarterback) played the first football of his life as a Freshman two years ago. Relegated to the B squad last year, he bore promise. From a 150-pound high school soccer star, he has grown into a 168-pound triple-threat. Lux, as he is called, also runs the sprints for State's track team.

BOB CAMEY (Fullback) is the squad's playboy, but he knows how and when to get down to business--which to him means football. He seasoned on the reserves last year and did well in the spring scrimmage with University of Richmond.

JACK HUCKABEE (Halfback) is the top back from last year's freshman squad. Huckabee does all things well and with some experience under his belt should become a big asset to the Pack.

CUTIE CARTER (Center) can easily be called the best football player per pound on the State squad. A quiet, business-like red-head, this hard-working home town product weighs 165 pounds, but plays like a 200-pounder. Cutie is a campus leader and a member of the college's Athletic Council.

J.B. THOMPSON (Tackle) won his letter as a relief tackle two years ago, but went on the shelf with a bad case of poison ivy last year. He returned to school this year to help bolster the tackle positions.

GENE CONRAD (Tackle) played his first football at State three years ago as a Freshman. He spent a year on the reserves and last year played his first varsity football when a leg injury freed out Ty Coen's understudy.

BILL WINDLEY (Guard) was lettered as a relief tackle last fall but was shifted to fill the yawning gaps at guard. Fast and powerful, Pantego William may be the answer to Line Coach Herman Hickman's prayer.

TONY DIVESO (capital D and Y) (Fullback) presideents the Monogram Club, is a member of the Golden Chain and is a chunky piece of football dynamite who is apt to explode in many a would-be opposing tackler's lap before the current campaign ends. For two years he has won letters as a general handyman in the State backfield.

PAT FEHLEY (Halfback) is a triple-threat of wide renown, whose hip-shaking, potent stiff-arm and determined drive made him a favorite last year when he was a sophomore.

HOWELL STROUP (Center) learned a lot of football on the reserves of two years ago and last year was able to uphold Retter's fine play about half of the time. Howell is expected to again share the co-captain's time on the field.

PAUL LOZIER (Halfback) beat Kenny Sands out of the fullback's position near the end of last year's campaign, but this year has been shifted to a halfback's position. Low Gear is the biggest and fastest back on the squad.

BOBBY SABOLYK (Halfback) is State's No. 1 placement kicker. He booted every extra point the team scored last year. A heady all-around player, he can be used at any of the four backfield positions.

CHARLEY SMART (End) is a crack light-heavyweight boxer as well as a capable end who was rushed into the thick of warfare last year while the injury jinx was trailing the Pack flankmen.

MONTE CRAWFORD (End) victim of several minor injuries last year, is being counted on to share much of the playing time with top-flight wingmen this fall. Monte plays basketball and is the ace intra-mural track man of the campus.

MICKEY THOMPSON (Halfback) never played a minute of football until he came to State College. He started as a Freshman, seasoned as a soph on the reserves and last year was rushed into State's most crucial games as an end when Fred Gardner went on the hospital list. Now Mickey has been shifted to halfback and the ace track and field man bears promise as a wingback.

JOHN BARR (Guard) probably is the most finished player from last fall's Fresh team. The best boxer on the campus and president of the '42 club, Freshman lettermen's organization, Barr makes up what he lacks in weight with quick thinking, fine execution, poise and determination.

J. D. JONES (Guard) learned his football on the reserves last year. A keen student of the game, a clever diagnostician of opponents plays, the quiet red-head bears much promise.

BILL COOPER (Guard) plays a lot of football for a 165-pound lineman. A natural leader he was of much help to the Frosh last year, after having sparked the all-North Carolina high school stars against the all-South Carolina team the year before.

MAC WILLIAMS (Guard) came up from the B squad, where he learned his football the hard way. A consistent performer, Williams is slated to see considerable service before he finishes his career.

PHIL AVERY (End) seasoned on the B squad last year, after having performed with the Frosh the year before. He has grown to varsity proportions and is labelled "Use when needed."

WADE BROWN (End) is the baseball player, who was salted away on the Reserve gridiron corps last year and who should see considerable service this season.

ALVIN PHILLIPS (End) was an all-state player at Raleigh High and a brilliant performer with the Frosh last year. His play is expected to greatly strengthen the end positions.

FRANK OWENS (End) can rightfully claim to be the tallest player in camp. Better than six-foot-three, Frank packs plenty of weight and should arrive as varsity material after a bit more experience. He plays a good game of tennis, thus is bidding for positions on two back teams in his sophomore year.

CHICK DOAN, JR. (Guard) played soccer in prep school in Pennsylvania and in his first year of football won his numerals on last season's Freshman team. He catches in baseball and is the son and namesake of State's veteran baseball coach.

WALT LEE (Guard) is growing in experience and weight and with the scrap and determination of a great athlete bears promise. He is a sophomore.

TOM TROBAUGH (Guard) came from Tennessee to State to study floral culture and make a stab at football. A scrapper from the word "go", Tom made a hit last year on the Frosh.

EARL STEWART (Halfback) a three-sport man is showing rapid development. He played forward in basketball and firstbase in baseball for last year's fresh.

ED THARP (End) understudied the 1938 Freshman wingmen and stands ready to jump into the thick of things when called on by the varsity mentors.

NORM WIGGIN (Halfback) may wind up playing end or tackle. At his Pennsylvania high school, Wiggin was a fine passing halfback. His rapid growth since coming to State last year has his coaches planning to use him at several positions.

RALPH SADLER (Tackle) is gaining much-needed experience and training and probably will be listed on the B squad this fall.

MARION STILLWELL (End) lacks the weight and experience needed to list him among the top-flight ends. The Thomasville boy is adding both these necessary requirements.

DUD ROBBINS (Halfback) bears promise of being the seat back State has been needing for several years. He showed up well in the scrimmage with Richmond last spring, but may be a year or two away.

HENRY BOLTREK (Tackle) shared time with the Fresh tackles last year and, late in reporting for his first varsity work, probably will be allowed to gain a year's experience on the reserves.

CURTIS RAMSEY (Tackle) broke a leg last year in the Fresh game with Wake Forest and was hampered in the winter drills by the ailment. A year's rest and a season of baseball has helped him considerably and he is in line for a relief tackle's place.

PEANUT DOAK (Quarterback) is the second son of State's veteran baseball mentor, Chick Doak. A fiery chunk of athletic flesh, young Doak is slated to be one of the firebrands of the varsity. He is a crack baseball pitcher to boot.

ED SMITH (Guard) plays football and baseball for keeps. A determined scrapper, the Raleigh boy has added considerable weight and has served warning that he is out for a place on the varsity before he graduates in 1942.

HAROLD FERREE (Halfback) is a speedster bidding for his first Wolfpack team. Harold comes from High Point.

ALLEGHENY HAMPTON (Tackle) never saw a football until he unloaded his 200-odd pounds on the State campus in the fall of 1927. He won his Fresh numerals in football, boxing and wrestling and, ineligible last year, is back bidding for a varsity berth this fall.

BYRON LEEPER (Tackle) the elongated transfer student from Mars Hill Junior college has hopes of playing some the next three years for Coach Doc Newton's Wolfpack.

ERVIN MEIVER (Guard) is one of the many products of last year's reserves. A Forestry student from Clearwater, Fla., Mac has shown considerable improvement since participating as a Fresh two years ago.

JOHNNY S. POS (Guard) passed up football last fall, after playing at Winston-Salem high, to devote full time to boxing, but this year is out for a crack at the guard positions on the eleven.

JOHNNY WARREN (Halfback) is a newcomer to the squad, who showed up at the early training camp and asked for a tryout. He comes from Winston-Salem.

JOE AQUILINO (Center) started his football at State on the winter squad of 1938, dropped out of school last winter, and is back now bidding for a place as Co-Captain Bill Retter's understudy.

TED JOHNSON (Guard) never has played in a varsity game, although he is a senior. He played at Newberry, S. C., High and on the Fresh here and the next year was given to the B squad. Last year was his debut year, but an ankle injury kept him on the shelf. He captains this year's wrestling team and is rated the leading light-heavy-weight grappler in these parts.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES OF N. C. STATE'S COACHES

WILLIAMS (DOC) NEWTON

Three years ago this fall Williams (Doc) Newton stepped into the hardest football job in these parts and came out with flying colors.

His North Carolina State teams haven't won any championships, but they have pleased the alumni with their fighting spirit and colorful football that have made them "look better in defeat than previous State teams looked in victory."

Coach Newton is a native North Carolinian. His father is a retired Baptist minister of Thomasville. An athlete himself, the personable State coach was sought after as a prep school player while at Cluster Springs Academy in Virginia. From there he went to the University of South Carolina and then into professional baseball to become a member of the famous Baltimore Orioles of the late Jack Dunn's time.

The World War broke into his athletic career and he served the last days of the conflict as an Army captain, missing the opportunity of going overseas. After the Armistice was signed he continued his baseball and in 1924 took up coaching as a profession at Jones Valley high school, near Birmingham, Ala.

In 1925 he began his college coaching career, serving until 1930 at Birmingham-Southern and Howard Colleges in Birmingham as an assistant and Freshman coach.

The year 1931 found him on the University of Tennessee staff as a scout and the following year he accepted the position of head coach of football at Davidson College, bringing with him Gene McEver, the All-American halfback from U. T.

For five years he coached Davidson teams to their greatest half-decade of football success. Twenty-three times his team returned victories against seventeen defeats and five ties.

Signed to a five-year contract at State during one of the bitterest feuds in Wolfpack history--a feud over a previous coach that divided the alumni, students and faculty into two distinct factions--Newton was greeted by nine boys the first day he called spring football practice. His patient, human ways of handling young athletes won him the admiration of all with whom he came in contact and by fall he had rejuvenated the Wolfpack, which went against its opponents in such a determined way that it gave State its best football record in five years. Only three games were lost as against five won and one tied.

And the next spring when he sounded the call for candidates 103 players reported!

Coach Newton pledged to the students, faculty and people of Raleigh that the State team would play the finest opponents available and during his regime Carnegie Tech, University of Detroit, University of Tennessee, Duquesne University and University of Alabama have been added to the Wolfpack football program.

His second Wolfpack team won only three games, lost seven and tied one, but went down in history as a gallant outfit that played such opponents as Duke University and Carnegie Tech within a span of five days and had only three touchdowns scored against it. It was an eleven that lacked just a little of being a truly great team.

Coach Newton teaches a variation of the Warner and Tennessee systems of football. He introduced what is known as the ultra-unbalanced line formation, which he uses with the familiar single-wing backfield formation. In the ultra-unbalanced line only one player is on the weak side of the snapperback. Critics say that this gives the middle of the line considerable advantage in blocking over the forowall whose snapperback is in the center of the line.

The Wolfpack coach is an expert baseball coach and usually devotes his summers to coaching American Legion junior baseball teams. He is a golfer of note and can be counted on to make the championship flight in almost any tournament. He is a Pi Kappa Phi, is married to the former Miss Annie Dee Rogers of Birmingham and has two children, Jean and Jimmy.

DR. ROBERT S. (BOB) WARREN

Bob Warren is the only alumni member of the North Carolina State football staff. He shone in football, basketball and baseball at State in the late 1920's after having graduated from the American School of Osteopathy at Kirksville, Mo. Since receiving his B. S. at State he has earned his M. A. in physical education at the University of North Carolina. Coach Warren left State to become head basketball coach at Virginia Tech, but returned to his alma mater in 1930 as Freshman football, basketball and baseball coach. All of his teams made enviable records. When Coach Williams (Doc) Newton came to State College he selected Dr. Bob as varsity backfield coach, in which capacity he has been most successful. Coach Warren is a Sigma Nu and a Lion. Mrs. Warren is the former Miss Margaret Whittmore of Reidsville, N. C. They have one child--Bobby, Jr.

HERMAN HICKMAN

An all-American college guard at 19 years of age, an all-American professional guard at 20, a top-ranking professional wrestler at 21 and an expert college line coach at 23--that's the record of Herman Hickman, North Carolina State's varsity line coach. Hickman is a native of Knoxville, Tenn. He propped at Baylor in Chattanooga, and played college football, wrestling and track at the University of Tennessee. His pro career was with the Brooklyn Dodgers and in 1935 he left professional wrestling to accept the position of line coach at Wake Forest College. When Newton came to State College he signed the famous Hickman as his varsity line coach. Rotund Herman is an SAE and the biggest man in the Raleigh Junior Chamber of Commerce. Mrs. Hickman is the former Miss Helen Smith of Knoxville, Tenn.

EDMUND MEREDITH (NIG) WALLER

Perhaps the most versatile man on the State College Coaching staff is Nig Waller, who has the title of Freshman football and baseball coach. His duties also include those of physical education instructor. Waller is a native of Bessemer, Ala., where he was an all-around high school athlete before entering Vanderbilt to play varsity football and baseball and secure his AB degree. He captained the nine in his senior year, 1927, and began his coaching career that fall at Bessemer high. In 1933 he obtained his MA in physical education at Peabody and for the next three years coached at State Teachers College in Murfreesboro, Tenn. From 1935-37 Coach Waller was supervisor of recreation with the TVA and came to State in 1937 to coach the Freshman teams for Coach Williams (Doc) Newton. Waller recently published Nig Waller's Sports Recorder, a systematic athletic records keeper. He is a Sigma Nu and married the former Miss Betty Stephenson of Birmingham. They have two children, Merideth, Jr., and Douglas.

WALTER (BABE) WOOD

The newcomer to the staff this year is Walter (Babe) Wood, the University of Tennessee quarterback for the past three years and now Freshman backfield coach here. Coach Wood played three years of high school football, baseball, basketball and track in his native McMinnville, Tenn., and then matriculated at Burritt Prep in Spencer, Tenn., helping that team lay claim to the mid-south football championship. In 1934 he entered the University of Oklahoma, but the next year went to the University of Tennessee where he made the all-Southern team. He starred for three years for the vols on the gridiron and one year on the diamond. He is an ATO and is married to the former Miss Margaret Anne Brown of Knoxville, Tenn.

HOW N. C. STATE'S 1939 OPPONENTS

SIX ARE UP

DAVIDSON COLLEGE

Coach: Gene McEver (Tennessee)
Colors: Red and Black

Location: Davidson, N. C.
Nickname: Wildcats

Prospects are for a stronger team from a small squad, which will have few reserves. Stan Yoder, sophomore fullback who packs 195 pounds of power, gives hope of variation in last year's brand of attack--the pass, pray and punt offensive. Seven holdovers from 1938 and a bumper crop of six promising sophomores form nucleus of Coach McEver's Wildcat team. Bill Belin, veteran back; Cales McClintock, end and two big tackles, Elmer Kneller and Don Bell, are among those expected to help most.

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE

Coach: Major R. R. Neyland (West Point)
Colors: Orange and White

Location: Knoxville, Tenn.
Nickname: Volunteers

The team will be slightly less terrific. Champions of Dixie last year, the Vols have been unanimously picked to repeat this season. Time tested man-power give them the stuff. Only four members of the gang that ran up 309 points while yielding two touchdowns and a field goal are missing; two of them were starters. Tight-lipped, lean-limbed George C. Gage again is the spearhead of the attack. Captain Sam Bartholomew, quarterback, and Len Coffman, fullback, are the finest pair of teeth-rattling blockers a Southern team has had in a decade. Ahead of them is a slashing line big enough, but not ponderous, and as fast in unit speed as the average backfield. As sophomores, Jimmy Wright at center, Bob Suffridge and Ed Molinski at guards and Abe Shires at tackle ran veteran seniors off the field. Suffridge made the all-America and was probably no better than Molinski, just a bit more spectacular. Shires gives promise of becoming a National standout.

CLEMSON COLLEGE

Coach: Jess Neely (Vanderbilt, '24)
Colors: Orange and Blue.

Location: Clemson, S. C.
Nickname: Tigers

Already picked as a prospective Bowl team for next New Year's Day, the Royal Bengals will be just about as strong as last season, when they were beaten only by Tennessee. Graduating ten players probably cost Coach Jess Neely some in defensive play, but the attack is expected to hit a new high as Clemson folk anticipate their best team in history. Banks McFadden and Loyell Bryant will spark the attack. Bru Trexler looks to have as much power and a bit more shiftiness than Don Willis, all-Southern fullback who graduated. The line is an eye-filling septet, fiery in spirit, impressive in physique. The Tigers have class aplenty.

WAKE FOREST COLLEGE

Coach: D. C. (Peahead) Walker (Howard, '21)
Colors: Old Gold and Black.

Location: Wake Forest, N. C.
Nickname: Demon Deacons

With kicking, power and speed and a big, smart line the Demon

Deacons' prospects appear to be bright, especially so if the end play comes to life. The real dark horse of the Southern conference, Coach Peabody Walker's team expects to use but one of the brilliant players who gave the Wake Fresh their great record of last year. That lad is John Polanski, perhaps the most promising newcomer to conference football. Eight starters last year were sophomores and all of them are back. They include Tony Gallowich, a weaving sprinter, and Marshall Edwards, powerful spinner, in the backfield. Polanski is expected to supply the much-needed aerial attack. Red Mayberry, miraculous punter, probably will round out the backfield. On paper this looks like an irresistible force.

UNIVERSITY OF DETROIT

Coach: Gus Dorais (Notre Dame, '14) Location: Detroit, Mich.
Colors: Red and White. Nickname: Titans

Detroit is another Wolfpack foe that is rated stronger this year. Coach Gus Dorais has backs to burn and the middle line is titanic. If Gus can replace Edward Palumbo's passing and fill vacancies at end, opponents had better watch out. Clinton Barritt, Jack Charboneau, Al Ghosquiere, Jack Galpin, Jim Murphy, Jack McDermott, Mick Pegan and Slovisky, all letter backs, will be augmented with Clyde (Pop) Johnson, Al Goodrich, Harry Groth, Paul (Mickey) McLaughlin, Henry Piatek, Tom Martin, John Biringer and Ray Fitzgerald from the crack Freshman team. Center Vincent Banonis, best seen around Detroit in many moons, bids fair to oust Captain Emerson Addison. It looks like a banner season for the Titans. The mild schedule prints only one way for them--up.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH CAROLINA

Coach: Raymond Wolf (T. C. U., '27) Location: Chapel Hill, N. C.
Colors: Blue and White. Nickname: Tar Heels.

Strong ends, a sturdy mid-line and crack passing of the George Stirnweiss-Jim Lalanne combine make the Tar Heel prospects unusually bright. Coach Raymond Wolf predicts the team will be the best balanced he has had at Chapel Hill if certain sophomores come through in the style reasonably expected of them. Thirteen of the lettermen who last year lost only to Tulane and Duke are back and some of them are having trouble keeping ahead of a larger and more talented group of sophomores and reservists than is customarily seen around the Hill. Frank O'Hare, a jackrabbit back, will understudy the aforementioned aerial combination. Paul Severin, Chuck Kline and Jim Mallory are ones of the veteran end corps. George Radman and Sid Sadeff add much to the backfield. It looks as if the Tar Heels have what it takes.

DUQUESNE UNIVERSITY

Coach: Buff Donelli (Duquesne, '30) Location: Pittsburgh, Pa.
Colors: Blue and White. Nickname: Dukes

The Dukes are fielding a stronger, smarter team with plenty of the undefeated Fresh of 1938 getting their chance. Coach Buff Donelli succeeded Clipper Smith in mid-winter and found his backfield lacks inexperience, but is taller and bigger than last year's quartet. Carl Nery, a punting tackle, has been switched to fullback.

He weighs 215 and proved a revelation in his only '38 start at full-back--against Detroit. Allen Donelli, brother of the coach, is small and rugged and a jackrabbit back. Standouts of the line are Francis Eureka, rotund tackle, and the rugged '38 Fresh-star flankman, John Rokiski. The Dukes will be no bargain for their highly touted rivals --Pittsburgh, Carnegie Tech, Detroit and Marquette, for instance.

FURMAN UNIVERSITY

Coach: A. P. (Dizzy) McLeod (Furman, '24) Location: Greenville, S.C.
Colors: Purple and White. Nickname: Purple Hurricane

An all-around strong team that may show big-time opponents a thing or two is in the books for Furman. The line is a good old Hurricane wall and Reten Shetley will have considerable more help in the backfield. Shetley is a line-cracker, who passes accurately, blocks with scythe-like precision, calls plays and recently developed a place-kicking ability of uncanny accuracy. Pepper Martin, 135 pounds of concentrated dynamite, is slated to be the climax runner, which he was against N. C. State last year, although his job is being threatened by Jimmy (Breezy) Brazill. Alternate-Captain Lloyd Coley, end, and Cecil (Swamp) Hinson and the coming sophomore, George (Man Mountain) Turner, tackles, are line standouts. The barometer is to drop this fall; the Hurricane is on the whirl.

DUKE UNIVERSITY

Coach: Wallace Wade (Brown, '17) Location: Durham, N. C.
Colors: Blue and White. Nickname: Blue Devils

A sharper attack will overshadow a line cracked by graduation and the Rose Bowl Duke University eleven should have another top-notch team and Southern Conference championship. Sweatpea Johnson, a fiery captain and guard, will lead perhaps the most versatile and effective attack within recent years. George McAfee is ready to stride to glory and pass opponents dizzy. Help will come from Soph Winston Siegfried, Steve Lach, Wesley McAfee, Roger Robinson and Jap Davis. Five members of the Seven Iron Dukes' line are gone. Still it will be a powerful force with outstanding ends in Belo Purdue and Bill Bailey. Look for Duke at the top of the heap again.

MIAMI UNIVERSITY

Coach: Jack Harding (Pittsburgh, '26) Location: Coral Gables, Fla.
Colors: Green and White. Nickname: Hurricanes

A strong defense backed by good reserves and an offense that may not be as strong is the outlook at Miami. Only one lineman and three backs are missing from the 1938 team. Co-Captains Walter Kichefski and Chuck Guimento, end and guard, head a strong line. Fullbacks Terry Fox and John Noppenberg and Halfbacks John Kurucza, Carl Carl Sapp, John Corcoran and Carl Jones give strong backfield nucleus, but sophomores must supply passing, punting and top-notch ball carrying. Lefty Sehner, Bill Steiner, John Tobin and David Wike may supply the answer.
