It's Debut For Shipbuilders

APPPEARANCE of the Newport News Apprentice School football team in Riddick Stadium for a season opener with the Wolfpack of State College marks the first trip of the Shipbuilders to a local gridiron and the initial meeting of the two teams.

To members of the coaching staff and many alumni, however, the game provides an opportunity to welcome to State a man who is well known in State College athletic circles. For heading the Apprentice School coaching staff is a mentor who is known to coaches, players, and fans over the entire South—genial Frank M. Dobson.

Oftentimes termed "the dean of Southern coaches," Dobson is a veteran of 38 years as a head football coach. Before assuming his present post, he directed such teams as the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets, the Sewanee Tigers of the University of the South, the Georgia Bulldogs, and teams at Clemson, University of Maryland, South Carolina, and Richmond. A former Princeton University athlete, Dobson's wrestling and track teams have vied with State for the past several years. He has been official starter for Southern Conference track meets for many years.

Assisting Dobson in directing football and other athletic activities at the Apprentice School is a capable staff of former stars of the gridiron. In charge of the ball-carrying department for the backfield is Red Simpson, former star quarterback at the University of Kentucky, and supervising line training are Tom Powers, brilliant Duke lineman and Rose Bowl veteran, and Norman Ochs, a former V.P.I. star. Granny Gresham of William and Mary is trainer for the shipbuilders.

Located at Newport News, Virginia, the Apprentice School is owned and operated by the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company as a technical training school for the men who today are building the nation's fighting and cargo ships.

Founded by the late Collis P. Huntington, the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company has made an enviable record of building vessels for private and government use. The Apprentice School is located near the ship yards, and actual experience in the yards is a part of every student's training.

Among present employes of the company today are many alumni of State College who are happy to welcome their fellow workers to State College campus.

"THANK GOODNESS!"

Here's one thing that hasn't gone up!"

NO NEED to look so surprised, Lady!

Far from going up, electric prices have been coming down — steadily! In the past 3 years, while the cost of living has climbed about 22 per cent, the average price of household electricity has dropped about 9 per cent. And this downward trend in the price of electricity has been going on for years. For example, if yours is an average family, you're getting just about twice as much electricity for your money today as you did 15 years ago.

That's good news to your budget! Meanwhile, you're enjoying the use of lots more electrical appliances.

Why is electricity so cheap? Because experienced business management has made it so. Your electric company has been on this job for years — and those years of experience count! They all add up to friendly, dependable service — at low cost even in wartime!

Teamwork wins battles, too!

TANKS, planes, paratroopers, infantry—it takes all, working in perfect coordination, to win battles today. Just as on the football field, it's teamwork that counts.

There is one big difference. In football, you leave the winning to others. In war, you are as much a part of the teamwork needed for Victory as pilots, bombardiers, tank crews, and foot soldiers.

Your job is to buy War Bonds, and then more War Bonds—to support our boys with the finest equipment money can buy. When you invest in War Bonds regularly every pay day—not the least, but the most you can—that is teamwork.

Remember our boys over there are counting on you to do your part. Remember, too, your War Bonds work two ways. They help win the war and provide for the peace by returning (in the case of E Bonds) $4 for $3 at maturity. This is the voluntary American way to raise the huge sums needed for Victory. Every shot—every bond—counts. Do your part—now. Teamwork wins!

"To Serve, and To Serve Well"

Is Our Greatest Desire

Ever since this firm was founded in 1914, it has been our policy to improve our services day by day, week by week, year by year. For, in the main, Dillon Supply is a service organization, not so much in the business of selling merchandise as it is in the business of selling products and services that, in turn, result in other firms improving their own fields. Our agricultural implements enable the farmer to improve his home and land and increase his income. The various parts we stock, such as machinery, tools, and appurtenances provide a constant supply to industries and agriculture, which produce goods for daily public use.

To do all these things we have had to quicken our pace and broaden our field of service each year. After 29 years, we are still doing it, and we believe it typifies the spirit of this organization to say, "We're still growing, still progressing, still trying to do a better job today than we did yesterday."

During the past twenty-five years we have enjoyed a close association with many of America's outstanding factories, whose products can be obtained at our stores.

FOOTBALL'S RULES ARE HERE TO STAY

By EDDIE DOOLEY

LAST YEAR, when the Rules Committee, governing the body of the game, announced the changes for the 1941 season, perhaps the loudest squawk in the history of intercollegiate football went up from grandstand quarterbacks and sports writers. "How," they asked, "was it possible for the Rules Committee to have made such an error as to allow unlimited substitutions?" The other rules, such as the one permitting a ball to be handed forward behind the line, under certain conditions, and that which had to do with the kicking team illegally touching a ball kicked from scrimmage inside their opponent's ten yard line, were O.K., but the substitution rule was cause for a verbal Donnybrook.

Many writers waxed eloquent over the stupidity of the committee. They pointed out that the substitution rule would virtually ruin the game. It would cause coaches to develop specialty foursomes — one of which would be adept at offense, and the other at defense. A team boasting a large array of alternates, they said, would have a definite and unfair advantage over a team without many alternates.

For a while it looked as though Walter R. Okeson, chairman of the Rules Committee, and his associates would have to go into hiding for the entire season. They were hailed as "spoilors," and condemned in the sports sections of the press. But time proved them not only to have been correct in their diagnosis of the situation, but it actually revealed the rule to be one of the finest innovations in the entire history of the game.

The substitution rule was not only justified from the standpoint of helping the small squad equalize the situation when playing a more powerful and numerous adversary, but it sped up the game, and cut down the number of injuries. Surveys have shown that a player is most likely to get hurt when he is tired, and his reflexes are slow. By using more players for shorter periods, the optimum of playing alertness is assured; the spectators get more fun out of the contest, and a greater number of players get a chance to participate.

It is a sad commentary on sport that of the men who shouted loudest in abusing the Rules Committee for their so-called mistake, not one is known to have apologized, either orally or in writing. Yet the Committee, by that single piece of legislation, probably did more for the game than had been done in years.

The rules last year proved so satisfactory in every way, that the committee is of the opinion that the game is now in a position where it can be stabilized. Changes henceforth will be few and far between. The chief concern of the governing body of the sport has been and is, the safety of the player. Down through the years it has kept that salient fact in mind at all times, and the wisdom of its decisions is reflected in the decreasing number of serious injuries on the field.

The rule permitting a handed forward pass behind the line of scrimmage was another smart change, because it not only stepped up the potential of offense, and enhanced deception, but it eliminated the numerous misunderstandings which were caused by veiled violations of the former rule in previous years.

Last year's rule change eliminating the touchback on a fourth forward pass over the goal line was another highly popular innovation. It gave the offending team a break when it needed it most, namely on fourth down, when in scoring territory.

All in all, the boys who have the destiny of the game in their hands seem to have done all right by the players, and by the public. Frankly the public isn't given much, if any, consideration when the solons convene. They're thinking only of the welfare of the players. Yet, judging by the way the game stands today, and the way 1941's rules worked out, the committee deserves a standing vote of thanks. . . . Did some one say something about the substitution rule?
