COUNTY PROGRAM OF WORK4-H CLUB PROGRAMPOULTRY

Number of girls enrolled _____ 25

Number of girls completing _____ 7

This year our poultry project has increased among 4-H club girls. We have twenty-five girls with poultry projects with fifty (50) or more chicks. Seven (7) of these girls carried their projects to completion with records. The Sears Roebuck Chain project here in our county certainly increased the interest of 4-H'ers to start poultry projects. All of the new poultry projects started this year are in neighborhoods where the Sears Chain projects were last year.

This year the following girls carried poultry projects: Nancy Lowe, Rt. 2, Kernersville; Marie Baynes, Rt.1, Brown Summit, N. C.; Barbara Ann Mebane, Rt. 8, Greensboro, N.C.; Beatrice Gaffin, Rt. 2, Summerfield, N. C.; Barbara Burton, Stokesdale, N. C.; Helen Green, Rt. 5, Greensboro, and Deloris Tonkins, Rt. 8, Greensboro, N. C.

Bara Ann Mebane won in the Sears contest as County Champion. Barbara Ann's seven (7) chickens sold the day of the auction for three dollars and fifty-five cents ($3.55) each. She won eight dollars ($8.00) in prize money, and made a net profit on her fifty (50) chicks of ninety-nine dollars ($99.00).

This year all food preparation lessons and demonstrations were centered around "Milk In The Diet." With the use of the 4-H cook book, the girls increased the consumption of milk in their families' diet by introducing a variety of milk drinks. In many cases we had several members of the family not drinking milk because they did not like the taste of fresh milk. Our records show that forty-two (42) families are now drinking milk daily because of the 4-H project on "Milk Drinks."

The champion demonstration team in the county gave as their demonstration a variety of milk drinks entitled, "Thirty-two Full Ounces of Health Daily." This team was composed of Roxie Maxwell and Carolyn Boggett of the Poplar Grove 4-H Club. This demonstration won first place in the county, and a blue ribbon in the District. The demonstration was given to six different groups with a total attendance of nine hundred and nineteen (919) people seeing the demonstration.

Louise Foxx of Guilford, N. C., prepared thirty-six (36) meals, served eighty-two (82) meals for her family in 1951. Louise is 13-years of age and says with her 4-H cook book she doesn't need much assistance from her mother.

COUNTY PROGRAM OF WORK4-H CLUB PROGRAMFOOD PRESERVATION

Number of girls enrolled	_____	181
Number of girls completing	_____	106
Number of quarts canned by girls	_____	3,180

Along with the food production project the 4-H club girls take a keen interest in food preservation, especially canning foods. This year Nancy Lowe topped the county as champion in this project, canning three hundred and eighty-seven (387) quarts of foods for family use. Others participating in the project canned an average of thirty-six (36) quarts per girl. Special emphasis was placed on the canning of tomatoes. Tryleene Hedrick, Rt.7, Guilford, participated again in the tomato canning contest.

Twenty-six (26) girls learned to use the pressure canner for the first time this year. Five of these girls also taught their mothers to use the canner. In fact, these girls were responsible for their parents getting a pressure canner.

It was estimated that these girls saved their parents on their food bill after deducting the cost of canner and the cost for production of food, seventy-three dollars and eleven cents ($73.11).

County Champion - Arcola Hill, Stokesdale, N. C.

Five blue ribbons went to the following girls in the county:

Arcola Hill, Stokesdale, N. C.; Ann Foust, Whitsett, N. C.; Gladys Pinnix, Gibsonville, N. C.; Constance Cummings, Gibsonville, N. C., and Jane Hooper, Summerfield, N. C. Of these girls who participated in the State and District Contest were: Gladys Pinnix, Constance Cummings, Ann Foust, Jane Hooper and Arcola Hill.

In our effort to work with these girls with their clothing project, it is our big objective to help these girls learn early the value of learning to sew for self, and to select and plan wardrobe according to personality and budget.

This year all of the clubs witnessed a demonstration on "Good Grooming for the Occasion," and to climax their clothing project a county-wide dress revue and fashion show was held.

CLOTHING

Many of these girls displayed their garments at the County Fair as a club booth exhibit. Not only did these girls make new garments, but they are taught to remodel garments. Our records show that two hundred and one (201) garments were remodeled this year by 4-H club girls.
