UNIVERSITY DAYS
JUNE 2-5, 1969

Sheraton Sir Walter
Raleigh, North Carolina

WELCOME

The University Days program is designed especially for the homemakers of North Carolina by the home economics Extension staff of North Carolina State University. We are attempting to bring a program of university excellence to you, the homemaker. Because of the many consumer choices each homemaker faces each day, we have built the program around consumer competence. We hope you will find the program one of information and inspiration and that your experience here will be a rewarding one.

Evening sessions on Tuesday and Wednesday will be held in the ballroom of the Sheraton-Sir Walter. They will start at 8 p.m.

Persons going on the tours scheduled for Tuesday afternoon will join their group at the Sheraton-Sir Walter at 3:30 p.m.

Dr. Bernice Milburn Moore

Dr. Moore served for 20 years in a joint capacity with the Hogg Foundation for Mental Health and the Division of Home and Family Life education of the Texas Education

Agency. She is now a full time staff member of the Hogg Foundation.

She serves as a consultant to groups and organizations throughout the nation and the state whose programs and projects are related to the family, personality and mental health.

Dr. Moore has lectured to thousands of persons in youth and adult groups and has conducted planning and training institutes in numerous communities. She was a forum speaker for the 1960 White House Conference on Children and Youth.

She received her Bachelor of Journalism and Master of Arts degrees from the University of Texas, Austin, and her Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Dr. Moore, author of several books, has been a newspaper reporter, magazine editor, a farmer and advisor for an industrial youth group.

Dr. Myrtle R. Reul

Dr. Reul has been a professor in the School of Social Work, in the University of Georgia, since January 16. Previously she was associate professor in the School of Social Work at Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan.

In addition she served as Acting Executive, Michigan Children's Aid Society, Jackson, Michigan, in 1957, and was Director of Special Research, Michigan United Fund for two years.

She has been a public school teacher, school social worker and principal and caseworker.

Dr. Reul is presently involved in a study on the Educational Needs of Migrant Children with the Rural Manpower Center at Michigan State University. In 1963-64, while on a sabbatical leave, she and her husband traveled for a year living and working as migrant farm workers which was described in the book, "Where Hannibal Led Us."

She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from Albion College, Albion, Michigan, and her Master of Arts, Master of Social Work and Doctor of Education degrees from Michigan State University.

Dr. Patsy Graves

Dr. Graves has spent 29 years working with women and girls, mainly in rural areas in North America, South America, Asia and Africa. She is now home economics advisor for International Development (AID) in Washington.

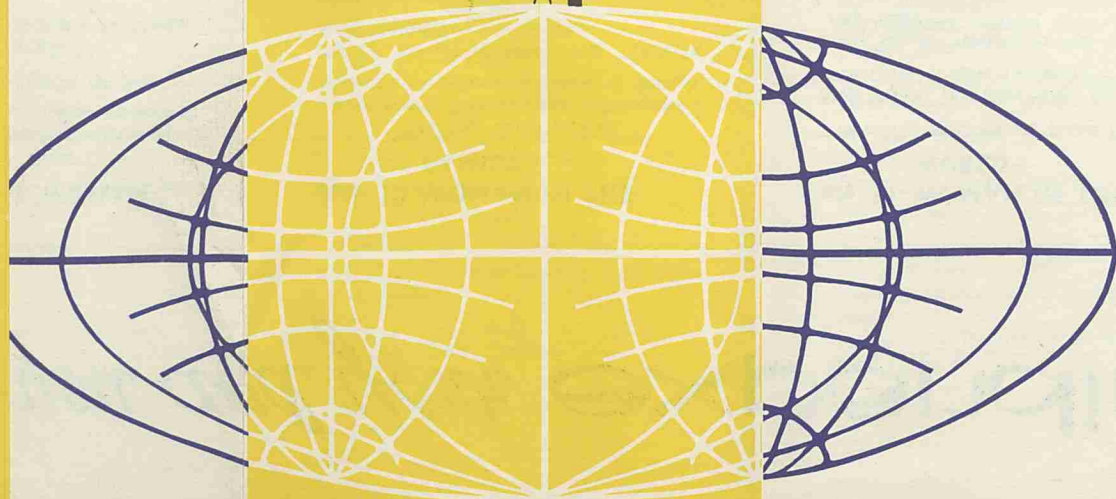

Born in Tusculumbia, Ala. and educated at Spelman College, West Virginia State College and the Columbia University School of Social Work, Dr. Graves began her professional career as an assistant in adult education with the Tennessee Valley Authority. She has served as a home demonstration agent in Alabama; state-wide agent in West Virginia; neighborhood secretary with the Urban League of Greater New York; national home economist in the Farmers Home Administration; regional home economics advisor for the five northeastern states of India, and as chief home economist of the U. S. AID Mission to Brazil.

Dr. Graves' last foreign assignment was as home economics advisor to the Western State of Nigeria where she organized one of the first home economics extension services for women in West Africa. Dr. Graves received an honorary Doctor of Humanities degree from West Virginia State College in 1966 and a meritorious award from AID in 1964.

RALEIGH JUNE 14-16

WELCOME

Welcome to University Days for Homemakers at N. C. State University. The Agricultural Extension Service is pleased to present a program designed as a "Focus on the Family." We invite you to explore new dimensions in family living through classes devoted especially to giving you the latest information about your home, the food you buy or produce, the family wearing apparel and family health. Also, we hope the special interest sessions featuring woman's role in leadership, public affairs, conservation and the arts will be mind stretchers to orient you to the impact you can have in your community, your state and your world. There's fun time, too, for the evening sessions are planned for your listening pleasure.
